JACK MATSON DIES IN HOSPITAL AFTER VERY BRIEF ILLNESS

Popular Young Businessman and Sportsman Passes Few Hours After Being Admitted to St. Joseph's—Was in Usual Health Until Wednesday When He Complained of Cold

JOHN Robert Meredith Matson, president of The Colonist Printing & Publishing Company, Ltd., one of the best known of British Columbia's younger businessmen, and internationally recognized as a premier sportsman of the Northwest, passed away last night in St. Joseph's Hospital following a brief illness. Mr. Matson was in his usual robust health until Wednesday, when he complained of a slight cold. He did not pay much attention to the ailment until Thursday when he sought medical advice. His condition gradually became worse, and yesterday morning he was admitted to the hospital, where he passed away suddenly at 6:30 p.m.

"Jack" Matson, as he was affectionately known to all who were privileged with his acquaintance, was a fine type of young man who was acquiring a splendid reputation in the world of business. He was in his thirty-sixth year. Born in Victoria, son of the late J. S. H. Matson and Mrs. Matson, he received his early education at St. Michael's School and the University School here. He later went to England to attend Harrow, from where he entered Cambridge University, taking the full course in law.

! BUSINESS CAREER

On leaving university he returned to Victoria and entered the legal firm of Helsterman and Tait. Preferring active business life he left the practice of law and entered the financial field. In 1929 he took part in the organization of the Island Freight Service Ltd., and was the president of the company at the time of his death. When his father died, he was only 18 years of age.

INEVITABLE WAR NOT HIS BELIEF

Arthur Henderson Urges Need of Collective Agreement on Armaments

NORMANTON, Yorkshire, Nov. 30 (CP).—Reaffirmation of the Labor party's public ownership principles and a declaration that it was imperative that world armaments be brought under a collective agreement, featured an address here tonight by Arthur Henderson, president of the World Disarmament Conference and former leader of the Labor party.

He described the international situation as grave, but said he did not believe war was inevitable in the immediate future. The armaments situation was the most dangerous symptom in the recent disquieting international situation, he declared. "It is imperative that the world's armaments be brought into a collective agreement, restricted and controlled by international authority," Mr. Henderson said.

ONLY THROUGH LEAGUE

The only way in which this might be done was through the League of Nations, and involved drastic disarmament, particularly the abolition of weapons such as national air forces, which threatened destruction so catastrophic and sudden as to render the League system helpless. Prevention of private manufacture of arms and collective action against an aggressor was also paramount, he said.

There was a deepening conviction that the situation, nationally and internationally, demanded the application of bolder and more fundamental measures, he continued. "If the Labor party is returned with a definite majority, it will not be diverted from the fundamental task of securing public control of finance and transfer of the great industrial monopolies to public ownership," he declared.

IDENTIFICATIONS ARE DESTROYED

Vancouver Chiropractor Sees His Fingerprints Removed From Police Records

VANCOUVER, Nov. 30 (CP).—All fingerprints, plates and other identifications of Dr. Walter Sturdy, chiropractor, held in police department files, were destroyed today in the presence of the doctor, who had previously served notice on the city that he intended to take action unless the identifications were destroyed.

The fingerprints, photographs and other identifications were taken in 1922, when Dr. Sturdy was convicted of practicing the profession of a chiropractor contrary to the existing Medical Act. The act was amended last year to legalize the practice of chiropractic.

Parliamentary Commission Hears of Short-Changing, Short-Weighting, Over-Charging and Other Tricks of Branch Managers to Defraud Customers and Balance Their Stock Accounts

OTTAWA, Nov. 30 (CP).—A inside story of "gypping" the public was related to the Parliamentary Mass Buying Commission, today. Two former employees of Thrift Stores, Limited, Montreal, and one from Dominion Stores, Toronto, told of short-weighting customers, short-changing, over-charging them and of merchandising tricks like adding salt to sugar and watering the vinegar. They said they were forced into illegal actions or would have lost their jobs.

WILL IMPROVE SCENIC ROUTE

Rock Ledges on Malahat Section of Island Highway to Be Removed

Material improvement to the Malahat section of the Island Highway is being carried out currently by the Provincial Department of Public Works. Blasting operations, on Tuesday last, removed a large shoulder of over-hanging rock, and will be followed next week by further rock removal at points nearby.

The initial blast succeeded in removing the entire obstruction at Mile 21, the highway being opened for traffic by nightfall on the same day.

On Tuesday, the next shots will be fired, and after rock loosened in these discharges has been removed, the highway will be put in first-class shape for the winter months.

Provincial Revenue Shows Increases in Current Operations

Liquor Profits for Half Year 25 Per Cent More Than Expected—Lumber and Other Receipts Also Gaining During Present Season

INDICATIVE of increasing returns in some forms of Government revenue, British Columbia's net liquor profits for the half-year ending September 30 were $1,060,969, up approximately 25 per cent over the official estimate budgeted this year. On the same basis, net profits for the full year would be in excess of $2,120,000, compared with $1,700,000 expected.

In a report to the Attorney-General's department, Liquor Board officials, yesterday, disclosed total sales of $4,977,437 for the six months period, or $520,374 more than in the corresponding period last year.

Operating expenses increased $3,320, being $336,306 for the half-year. Despite a reduction in the percentage taken by the Province out of gross profits, increase in net profits for the period was $34,647. Beer sales made up most of the gain, sales increasing by $354,387 as a result of a reduction in the price of beer. Liquor prices were also reduced, and were cut again yesterday on some brands.

WINES IN FAVOR

British Columbia wines grew in demand, and sales expanded by $33,257 in this class. Australian and South African wines shared in increased purchasing, the gain in sales being $19,518.

The itemized return of sales for the period April 1 to September 30 gives the following results: Spirits, $2,054,181; beer, $2,413,693; British Columbia wines, $197,574; Australian and South African wines, $58,772.

USE GAS AGAINST DEMONSTRATORS

National Labor Relations Board Supervisor Calls Conference in Attempt to End Strike

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 30 (AP).—Police used tear gas guns on a rush hour crowd tonight to quell a demonstration by striking street car trainmen and sympathizers. The demonstrators assembled at Seventh and Broadway, heart of the business area, and jeered at non-striking car crews and passengers. After they ignored traffic officers' orders to move on, other police came armed with tear gas guns and routed them, as well as everybody else in range.

A renewed attempt by the Federal Government to settle the seven-day-old strike, in which there have been numerous acts of vandalism and minor injuries, started today in a series of closely-guarded conferences. The conferences were called by P. A. Donoghue, West Coast supervisor for the National Labor Relations Board, who hurried here from Seattle after all attempts at conciliation had broken down.

Six Millions in Toll Bridges Are Mooted on Fraser

As a sequel to the Ladner Bridge Amendment Bill, introduced at the opening of the last session of the Legislature and later amended to enable the $2,500,000 Dease Island project to proceed, the Province has now signed an agreement with the Ladner Bridge Company. Hon. F. M. MacPherson appended his signature to the agreement this week, as Minister of Works. Plans for between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 worth of toll bridges over the Fraser River between New Westminster and Dease Island are now afloat. The New Westminster project is to be assumed as a public undertaking.

OCEAN FLYER ALTERS PLAN

Ulm Decides to Start From Oakland on Flight to Australia

VANCOUVER, Nov. 30 (CP).—Captain Charles T. P. Ulm's plans for a Canada to Australia flight have been thwarted by rough weather along the Pacific Coast and the approach of the rainy season on the Pacific Ocean. He has decided to hop from Oakland, Cal., tomorrow or Sunday, if possible.

The Australian flyer had hoped to fly here from Oakland today, but found the weather so bad along the coast he was unable to make a start. He declared over the telephone he could delay no longer on his flight to Australia.

STOP AT NEW ZEALAND

Ulm plans to include a stop in New Zealand in his flight programme. He will hop from Oakland to Honolulu, and thence to the Fanning Islands, Fiji, Auckland and Sydney. Previously, he had intended to start the flight from Vancouver.

"The rainy season is approaching and it is imperative that we start our trans-Pacific flight at once," he declared. "Therefore we have decided to start from Oakland on Saturday or Sunday, if possible. My route will be Oakland to Honolulu, to Fanning Island, to Fiji, to Auckland and then to Sydney."

"An additional factor in the situation is the approach of high tide season at Fanning Island, and I must get there as soon as possible. We have lost so much time already on our trip across the United States, that we must push off just as soon as our equipment has been inspected and made fit for the trip."

VICTORIA TUG RESCUES FOUR

Two Launches Sighted in Distress Off Bowen Island—Both Boats Founder

VANCOUVER, Nov. 30 (CP).—Four men were rescued from two sinking vessels by the tug Strath, of Victoria, today as a stiff gale swept the Gulf of Georgia, forcing small shipping to run to shelter and causing minor waterfront damage.

En route from Vancouver Island to Vancouver to pick up a tow, the Strath encountered two small gas-boats in distress off Bowen Island, heavy seas sweeping the tiny craft and threatening to engulf them at any moment.

UNABLE TO SAVE BOATS

In the smother of waves and spray, the crew of the Strath had difficulty in effecting a rescue, but two men were eventually taken off each vessel. Efforts to save the boats were futile and both sank in deep water. The rescued men were brought here.

The normal 12.7-foot tide was reported at least 15 feet above that figure at Vancouver, driven by the wind. Minor waterfront damage resulted from the high water.

MESSINA, Italy, Nov. 30 (AP).—Chief Engineer M. J. Demott was arrested today, charged with shooting with intent to kill First Officer Frederick Roberts, of the American liner, after an altercation aboard the ship, after it docked here today.

Police said Demott fired three times at Roberts. Two of the bullets took effect.

LAKE FREIGHTER

ASHORE IN GALE

Man Drowned When Surfboat Swamps in Attempt to Rescue Sailors

MUSKEGON, Mich., Dec. 1 (AP).—The ore freighter Henry Cort, caught in a sixty-mile-an-hour gale here last night, is grounded on the rocky breakwater of the Muskegon harbor, and efforts to rescue its crew of twenty-five men will be made at dawn, Abraham Wessel, assistant to the commander of the Muskegon coast guard station reported early today.

Wessel said that reports received at the station from Captain John A. Basch, whose surfboat was swamped with the loss of one life trying to reach the Cort last night, indicated the ore freighter is only partly submerged in the heavy seas.

MAY BE BELOW DECK

Wessel said that unless the waves had swept men from the deck of the Cort, it was possible the crew might be found alive below deck.

The Cort was reported to be half a mile off the north breakwater of the Muskegon harbor, completely hidden from view by the high pounding waves of the lake and an inky darkness.

U.S. coast guard crews from other stations on the Michigan side of the lake were summoned here early today to aid in the attempt to reach the hapless freighter at dawn.

The disaster came during one of the worst storms that have lashed Lake Michigan this season.

Little Hope Held for Lives of Two Firemen—Wild Confusion Prevails While Injured Men Are Rescued From Fire—Comrades Display Great Heroism in Braving Danger

Firefighters Are Partially Buried Under Twisted Debris

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 30 (AP).—Hurtled from ladders in the roaring flames when a wall of a blazing trunk factory building collapsed in downtown Denver, tonight, ten Denver firemen were in a hospital, several feared near death, after they were taken from the fire-swept debris by heroic comrades.

Wildest confusion prevailed as police and other firemen rushed the injured men to a hospital, but a check at the emergency ward of the hospital listed the fire victims as follows:

Deputy Chief Andrew J. Mahon, Fire Captain Harry H. Wood, Fire Lieutenant John Kressels, Firemen H. F. Jacobson, James Dempsey, Lodi Hoss, Ralph Paul, B. A. Jones, Eugene Sullivan and William Behrman.

DEATH TAKES CITY PIONEER

Harold Fleming, Well-Known Photographer, Passes Away in His Sleep

Harold Fleming, of 948 Foul Bay Road, one of Victoria's pioneer photographers, passed away in his sleep at the family residence, Thursday evening. Mr. Fleming had been in ill-health for some time, although he had not been in bed.

Born in London, sixty-nine years ago, Mr. Fleming came to this city with his brother, Edgar, in 1887. They started in the photographic business, and later dissolved partnership, the deceased locating in the premises he occupied up to the time of his death. He conducted his photographic business on Government Street for forty-seven years, and during that time did much to spread the fame of Victoria's scenic beauties through the photographs he took, and which were mailed to all parts of the world.

He had a wide circle of friends, to whom the news of his death came as a great shock. He was a member of the I.O.O.F. and highly esteemed in the fraternity, as well as by the community at large.

Surviving him are his widow, well known as president of the Red Cross Society for many years; a daughter, Mrs. J. T. Powie, of Vernon; a son, Richard H. Fleming, of La Jolla, Cal.; two brothers, Edgar Fleming, of this city, and Richard Fleming, of London, and five sisters.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Jugoslavia to Cancel Treaty With Hungary

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Nov. 30 (AP).—It was understood here today that one of the first actions to be taken by Yugoslavia against Hungary, as a result of Hungary's alleged complicity in the assassination of King Alexander, will be cancellation of the existing frontier treaty.

The treaty, which was concluded July 4, regulates trade and traffic along the frontier. As Rumania and Czechoslovakia have similar agreements with Hungary, it was expected that those states as members of the Little Entente, will join Yugoslavia in annulling of them.

Italy's Fascists, many of whom have expressed the feeling that dictatorship in Spain is the only way to avert complete chaos, and the four groups of Spaniards here—the exiled monarchists, the Leftist intellectuals, the Spanish clerics and the diplomats—assigned considerable importance to Goicoechea's visit.

It was recalled in diplomatic circles here that Goicoechea was one Spanish deputy always fervently loyal to the monarchy, and it was considered probable that he made the flying trip to get King Alfonso's approval for out-and-out restoration of the monarchist party in Spain. A spokesman at his villa said Goicoechea wished merely to congratulate Alfonso on the forthcoming marriage of his daughter, the Infanta Beatriz, to Prince Alessandro Torlonia of Italy.

After conferring with King Alfonso at Villa Ruffa here, he returned as secretly as he had come. He came and went without the immediate knowledge of the Spanish embassies to Rome and the Holy See.

Children Benefit Under Home Plan Report Declares

System of Obtaining Home Training and Influences for Wards of Children's Aid Society Is Better Than Old Institutional Training

INCREASED efficiency, and what is of more importance, enlarged benefits to the children, have resulted from the boarding plan of the Children's Aid Society, put into force a year ago, is the conclusion reached after trying the system for a full twelve months. A report on the system has been prepared by the officials of the society.

According to the experience of the society the results achieved during the past year as formerly, under the plan of boarding children in approved private homes, where they are given every proper care and consideration, are far superior to the institutional system formerly in effect. The society, in its report, notes that there is need for public assistance and support,

EXPLOSION MAKES VANCOUVER DARK

Fire Follows in Electric Substation—Light Out Downtown and in West End

VANCOUVER, Nov. 30 (CP).—The downtown and west end districts of Vancouver were in complete darkness for a half-hour tonight when fire broke out in the Main Street substation of the British Columbia Electric Railway Company.

The fire, started when an oil switch exploded, burned in the rear of the building for about an hour until brought under control by city firemen.

Company officials stated that no estimate of damage would be available until a complete check-up had been made, but believed that it would not be extensive.

Success Is Predicted For Central Bank By Deputy Governor

J. A. C. Osborne Arrives in Canada to Assume New Duties — Is Surprised at Governor's Power of Veto Over Directors

HALIFAX, Nov. 30 (CP).—Canada's new Central Bank is destined for success, its deputy governor predicted today as he reached the Dominion to take up his new duties. "It may take some time, but I believe the new banking structure will work out well," said the new executive, J. A. C. Osborne, who has given up his position as secretary of the Bank of England for from two to five years to help Canada set its recently-organized financial system on its feet.

The man who will be second in command of the Bank of Canada — an alert, youthful-looking Briton — arrived here from England aboard the liner Duchess of York.

He entrained almost immediately for Ottawa, where the bank will have its headquarters. On the train, Mr. Osborne will celebrate a birthday — his fifty-third.

WILL BE FAIRLY BUSY

Mr. Osborne minimized the work that faced him, Graham F. Towers, the thirty-seven-year-old governor, would have to do some traveling in getting the bank organized, and the deputy would be fairly busy, it seemed, "when Mr. Towers isn't around."

He omitted to mention he had come to Canada preceded by a reputation as an able banking organizer in Europe.

Having organized the bank for international settlements, and the foreign and overseas departments of the Bank of England, he has spent more than thirty years of his fifty-two years of life with the bank.

PREDICTS SUCCESS

In foreign countries, he said, central banks had proven their worth, and there was little reason why equal success should not be met in Canada. Business and industry would benefit, though indirectly, through the bank's operation.

Control should be exercised over financial activities, he said, through the restriction and expansion of credit as justified by changing conditions. Work of the bank would be conducted in co-operation with

TRUSTEE FIRST TO FILE PAPER

P. E. George Gives Civic Returning Officer Nomination Document

Trustee P. E. George is the first candidate in the civic election to file his nomination papers with the returning officer, M. F. Hunter, who also is city clerk.

The nomination paper states that Percival Edward George, 3171 Mars Street, music dealer, will seek election to the city school board for a two-year term.

He is sponsored by Charles Herbert Kent, of 228 Douglas Street, merchant, and seconded by R. H. B. Ker, 1524 Shasta Place, insurance agent.

RIGHT OF VETO

One thing Mr. Osborne found "peculiar" about the new bank. That was the circumstance that Governor Graham Towers had been accorded the right of veto over the board of directors. The deputy governor was not critical of the move; he remarked merely that it deviated from central banking practice in other countries.

So far as he was concerned, plans for the organization of the Central Bank were indefinite, Mr. Osborne said. He had not seen the Governor since he left England for Canada some weeks ago. He believed, however, it should be functioning by February of next year, organization work having been completed in the meantime.

spectators, and firemen dropped their lines to race to the aid of the trapped men.

As fast as they were taken out, their comrades sped them to the hospital in police and fire patrol cars, and the fact that several firemen were not accounted for, while en route to hospital, gave rise to reports, at first, that the missing men were buried in the blazing building.

IN WHOLESALE DISTRICT

The building housing the trunk and implement firms are in the heart of a wholesale district, and firemen worked frantically to keep the flames from spreading.

It was reported that the blaze was virtually under control shortly before midnight. All firemen had heads said.

Guards were stationed to patrol the scenes throughout the night because of the peril of electric wires.

HOLDER OF WOMEN'S AIR RECORD KILLED

VERSAILLES, France, Nov. 30 (CP-Havas). — Helen Boucher, famous French woman flyer, was killed today when her plane crashed near here during a trial flight.

She held the international women's record for altitude, with a height of 19,366 feet, set at Orly Airport, August 2, 1933.

Goes to Jail for Criticizing Speech

WEIMAR, Germany, Nov. 30 (CP-Havas). — Professor Johannes Leisinger, German savant, who characterized Chancellor Adolf Hitler's memorial address at the funeral of President Paul von Hindenburg as an "election speech," was sentenced today to six months' imprisonment. He was charged with being a reactionary.

A NICE BIG SMILE

Smith replied by telling of the supervisor and his manager — he was a clerk at the time — watching him manipulate the string, and then "he gave me a pat on the back and a nice big smile."

Sair went even further, claiming he had been taught the "tricks" by a Thrift Store manager, Frank Bigman, while he underwent a period of training. He said the supervisor in his district told him: "Do not think for a moment the head office does not know what you fellows are doing — there is no trick that goes on in the stores anywhere that the head office does not know."

The former Thrift Store manager told of a meeting of managers in the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, which he said was addressed in these words by John Schaffner, the general manager: "Every damned man in this crowd is a crook, and we know it." Sair claimed all Thrift Store managers resorted to illegal practices because they had to balance their stock, or their pay and commissions would be docked. He was fired when he did not balance.

WORKED FULL TIME

Grodinsky said he was a full time employee, part as delivery boy and part as clerk. His salary was $6 a week. His hours were from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. and 8 p.m., Friday until 9 p.m., and all day Saturday until 3 o'clock Sunday morning.

He was nineteen years old. During the sixteen months he was at the Thrift Stores, there were four managers. Two were fired for short stock and the two were transferred. He was ordered to leave a week after R. A. Sair was dismissed, business not having been good. He did not try to get a job with Thrift, because he did not want to work with them any more.

He was active in military circles, and held the rank of captain and paymaster in the Second Battalion 16th Canadian Scottish.

Mr. Matson was also prominent in social circles and held membership in the Union, Pacific and Elks clubs.

He is survived by his mother, at present visiting England, a sister and brother-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. P. A. C. Cousland, at the family residence, "Mount Adelaide," Esquimalt, and a brother, H. T. Matson, Vancouver. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Some spare parts from Uim's twin-engine plane are being forwarded from here, and mechanics at Oakland will complete overhaul of the aircraft. A large quantity of mail and parcels sent to Uim here is also being forwarded.

MAKES SUDDEN CHANGE

OAKLAND, Calif., Nov. 30 (AP). — In a sudden change of plans, Captain Charles T. P. Uim put his plane in a hangar here, tonight, to be serviced for a flight from Oakland to Australia. Only a few hours previously, he had been planning to start for Vancouver, B.C.

Approach of the rainy season and imperative need that we start our trans-Pacific flight at once," were the reasons given by Uim for his decision to start tomorrow or Sunday, if possible, from the Municipal Airport here, instead of Vancouver.

Uim took his plane up this morning for a thirty-minute test flight, loaded with 600 gallons of gasoline. He barely missed a crash when he skimmed over the field fence with only six inches to spare between wheels and fence. His take-off calculations were affected by a sudden shift in wind.

Rumors that Uim might attempt a surprise dash from Oakland to Australia, set field attendants wondering when he took off this morning if he might not head westward for Honolulu. He soon disappeared in the clouds, and after a time, belief grew that he was on his way.

IN EXCELLENT CONDITION

But he returned to say: "The plane is in excellent condition. We can make the hop with no trouble at all."

Uim said he would not know his plane definitely until he received the latest weather report tomorrow morning, when he will take off if it is favorable.

No life raft will be carried, although Uim "supposed" the plane would float for some time in quiet water.

"But we don't expect to get our feet wet," he said. "Just in case," the crew will carry twelve pounds of rain gear and a small water container.

As the silver and orange plane was being given a final check-over, it was discovered that two instruments were out of commission, and arrangements were made to set them right. They were the rate of climb and the artificial horizon indicators.

NEGRO SHOTS FOUR PERSONS TO DEATH

QUITMAN, Miss., Nov. 30 (AP). — Floyd Watson, twenty-one-year-old Negro, went on a "shooting spree" about twelve miles out in the country from here, today, officers said, and killed four Negroes and wounded three others.

Angered over paternal objections to his going with Sanders Moss' sixteen-year-old daughter, Watson killed the entire Moss family, including his sweetheart, then fled into the woods, officers reported.

CHILDREN BENEFIT UNDER HOME LAW

"(1) The advantages or disadvantages in carrying out the objects of the society.

"(2) The advantages or disadvantages to the children themselves.

"(3) The question of cost.

"As regards (1), there can be no doubt that matters are greatly improved from the point of view of efficiency. We are not now just maintaining the children, but guarding and guiding them in every way which will help to make them good citizens. The object of the society is not just to satisfy a sentimental desire to help individual cases of neglect, but is primarily for the benefit of the community generally, in preventing children from growing up as a menace to society.

We must be very careful that we do not let our children develop a frame of mind likely to make them misuse the freedom from our control, which they arrive at the age of eighteen, and which might well end in their bringing up children of their own under conditions similar to those which brought about their own commitment to us. The foster-home plan affords a much better opportunity for avoiding any such bad results, and, if the work is worth doing at all, it is worth doing intelligently and in the best way possible. This is what we are now trying to do, and the change which we have made is strongly endorsed by all experienced workers in this particular field.

ACTION JUSTIFIED

"As regards (2), the results have been very much more than justified our action. In every case there has been an improvement in the child. We note a great change in mental outlook, with increased self-respect, self-reliance, manners, etc. A new interest in school work has been strikingly demonstrated, and, generally, all the children in our care are growing up in a normal atmosphere, happy, in their homes, and proud of them, and sincerely attached to their foster-parents, whose interest and devotion is beyond all praise, and the payment they receive. There is no longer an inferiority complex, or sense of repression and restriction, and no forced association with undesirable companions.

"As regards (3), we have looked into the figures as carefully as possible and find that the per-capita per-day cost of the present plan is just about the same as it was under the old method. This has been the experience in other cities where a similar change has been made, and, in our own case, there is practically no difference. It must be mentioned that when the institution was running, a great deal of assistance was given in gifts of food, clothing and other necessities. This was not entered in the books, and, if accounted for, would make the old costs higher than the new.

SUPPORT NEEDED

"The new plan has a disadvantage in loss of publicity, as well as in loss of the assistance in kind just mentioned. This has entailed a falling off in voluntary subscriptions, but these are required for the preventive work only, since the cost of the wards is provided for by statute.

"Under our new organization it has been possible for us to take up preventive work seriously for the first time, and although the expense of this does not enter into the present comparison, it is an anxious problem to the directors, and, at the same time, perhaps the most important branch of the society's work.

"Altogether the board of directors is confident that far greater value is being obtained for the money spent and it has every reason to be satisfied with the change and none at all for considering any question of returning to the institution method.

RECEIVING HOME

"Perhaps there has been a little misunderstanding about this, owing to the fact that the board is considering the advisability of running one small boarding-home of its own for the accommodation of some four to six children at most. The idea of this is purely as a receiving-home, so that new cases may be straightened out and studied before being placed in a more permanent home. Such a receiving-home would give our superintending opportunity for thorough investigation, for getting a complete medical examination made, for seeing to the clothing and for deciding upon the right kind of foster-parents and environment. Whilst it has been agreed that this would be a great advantage in many ways, the question still awaits full consideration of the financial obligations involved."

LAST RITES CONDUCTED

Wheat Exporters Fix New Method Of Setting Quotas

Adoption of Changes in World Agreement Said to Have Saved Conference at Budapest From Collapse—Canada Supports Argentina's
Proposal for Alterations

BUDAPEST, Nov. 30 (AP).—Adoption of an entirely new method of determining world wheat export quotas by Canada, the United States, Argentina and Australia was predicted tonight by one of the "Big Four" delegates in an exclusive interview with the Associated Press.

The delegate, who asked that his name be withheld until the negotiations be completed, said an agreement had been reached on the principle of allotting quotas on the basis of world demand over a six-year period.

This would mean the scrapping of the London Wheat Pact of 1933, which used the average of 1930-33 acreage given over to wheat production as a basis for determining the export quota of a country.

AT CRITICAL TIME

The asserted agreement, which would save the world wheat conference and its efforts to stabilize the basic cereal, was disclosed just at the moment that the outlook for success of the big four's negotiations appeared blackest, and it was feared the conference would break up in failure tonight.

The establishment of a new quota basis is regarded as a signal victory for Argentina, which almost wrecked the conference by insisting on scrapping the 1933 pact formula.

"We made up our minds," said the Associated Press informant, "that we are not going home without arrangements for continued control of the world wheat situation."

FIND NEW FORMULA

"Argentina made her prediction concrete in showing why she considered the 1933 arrangements unfair, and at last we found a new and flexible formula which is acceptable to all."

"We may not decide on actual quotas at this meeting, but we will have achieved our main purpose—we came here knowing we had to draw up an entirely new treaty," he concluded.

Argentina was believed ready to denounce the existing pacts on the ground that the 1930-33 period, which was used as a basis, was one of great abnormality in wheat production.

It was disclosed tonight that the Canadian-American-Australian bloc against her stand was broken when Canada joined the South American nation in demanding a new basis. The Canadian Government, it was understood, has been persuaded to accept the new formula tentatively.

Under the new scheme, acreage reduction would not be stressed as it was under the London pact, which envisaged an eventual 15 per cent reduction from the 1930-33 acreage.

CAUSES NO SURPRISE

OTTAWA, Nov. 30 (CP).—Word from Budapest, tonight, that the World Wheat Conference was working on a new formula for the determination of export quotas among the "Big Four" exporting countries, Canada, Australia, the United States and Argentina, occasioned no surprise in official circles here.

While the Canadian Government was satisfied with the 1933 wheat pact as it stood, the Government realized its weakness in that it was not wholly fair to Argentina. As Canada was anxious to retain the system of world control of wheat exports, the delegates from this country supported the move for changes in the 1933 pact.

Wheat experts here stressed the statement that the 1933 pact was not being "scrapped." It was being amended so some of the amendments being applied were drawn up at the London Wheat Conference during the summer.

MILD WEATHER IS SUSTAINED

July Only Month of Year
When Temperature Not Above Average

With the exception of July, every month of this year the mean temperature has been well above average, P. Napier Denison, director of the Dominion Meteorological Observatory, announced last night when giving the weather report for the month of November.

During the first four months of 1934, the mean temperature was 4.5 degrees above average, which was quite remarkable. Last month the mean temperature was 2.8 degrees above average, despite the fact that there were only 50.42 hours of sunshine.

The mean temperature for November was 4.8 degrees. The maximum was 56 degrees, and the minimum was 28 degrees. The lowest was on the twenty-eighth, when the thermometer registered 28 in the standard screen, and 31 on the grass.

The hours of sunshine were thirty-six hours below average, while the rainfall was 4.57 inches, which is 24 of an inch below average. The precipitation for the year amounts to 24.49, which is 1.11 inches above average.

MUST ELIMINATE STAFF FRICTION

Sales and Credit Departments in Stores Must Co-operate for Success of Business

Friction between sales and credit departments must be eliminated and co-operation instituted in retail business if each store is to turn over more business, declared A. B. Stewart, credit manager of McLeanman, McFeely & Prior, in addressing the Victoria Credit Granters' Association at its luncheon meeting in the Douglas Cafe, yesterday.

Mr. Stewart pointed out that in practically every retail credit or wholesale business, a certain amount of feeling existed between sales and credit staffs. He stated the credit department was tolerated to a great extent by firm salesmen.

"The sales force turn in a large order and it is turned down by the credit department, thus annoying the particular salesman. Then, on the other hand, credit staffs are faced with the need to meet delinquent customers. These, in turn, think the credit department is working against them," declared the speaker.

He quoted at length from a recent article in The Credit World to illustrate his various points. Later Mr. Stewart conducted a discussion on the topic in which various members took part.

It was announced that at next week's session S. J. D. Clark, of the Royal Trust Company, would be guest speaker. Next Friday's luncheon would be the last for 1933, the association to open again early in January.

FINDS EDITOR WAS MURDERED

Coroner's Jury Recommends
Further Investigation Into Death at Port Hope

PORT HOPE, Ont., Nov. 30 (CP).—Donald Wilson, Port Hope editor, died from arsenic poison, "administered to him by some person or persons unknown," declared the verdict of a coroner's jury here tonight. "Donald Wilson did not commit suicide," the verdict said.

After sitting all afternoon to hear evidence, the jury announced its findings early tonight. Their complete verdict read:

"Donald Wilson did not commit suicide, but came to his death by arsenic poison administered to him by some person or persons unknown. He died on October 28, at about 3:45 a.m., in Port Hope Hospital, and the jury recommends that further investigation be carried on."

WALKED INTO LAKE

Mrs. Wilson, twenty-eight years of age, walked into Lake Ontario with her baby, Clara, in her arms. She left a note, stating her husband "had got hold" of some rat poison and that "gossip" had killed her. The day previous she had been questioned by police concerning her thirty-four-year-old husband's death.

Professor Jocelyn Rogers, Government analyst, who examined the contents of Wilson's stomach following death, informed the jury today that he found fifty-four grains of arsenic, of which only two grains would have caused death.

FRICTION OVER BABY

As the Crown probed the relations of Wilson, editor and publisher of The Port Hope Guide, a paper that had been in the Wilson family for a generation, with his wife, it was revealed that friction had appeared in the household because of the baby girl. It was testified that Mrs. Wilson did not approve of her husband touching the child or placing her on his knee.

The accused will take his trial before Judge Lampman on Wednesday next, without a jury. W. B. On the first of the charges, the accused, at an early hour in the morning, awakened the Misses Graham, according to the evidence given at the preliminary hearing. When Miss Marjorie Graham awakened, she found the accused, she said, sitting on her bed.

The testimony given was that he apologized, contending that he had

In the other case, the evidence was that the accused broke into the room of Laura Wright, an aged woman, whose living-room was at 937 Blanshard Street. The accused also had living quarters in this apartment house. He was accused of having assaulted her, hitting her in the face with his fists.

MR. JOHN R. MATSON

It is with feelings of the deepest sorrow that we have to record today the death of Mr. John R. Matson, President of the Board of Directors of the Colonist Printing and Publishing Company. The suddenness of the happening will come as a grave shock to his very large circle of friends; it has come as a stunning blow to the employees of this newspaper. A fine athlete, one who enjoyed excellent health, and always brimful of cheerfulness, his passing in the prime of life will cause the deepest regret for he had earned many warm friendships through his camaraderie and sportsmanship. This was especially so since he took a prominent place in directing the fortunes of this newspaper following the lamented death of his father three years ago. He had settled down to a life of business activity which has now been suddenly cut short.

The late Mr. J. R. Matson was born in Victoria and his early education was undergone here before he left for Harrow School from where he subsequently entered Cambridge University. On his return to Victoria he continued his study of the law, started at the university, but finding that profession not a congenial one to him, he soon afterwards built up the Island Freight Service with which he had been connected for a number of years. His advent to newspaper duties was three years ago and the receptivity of his mind made the task of learning all about the publishing business a profitable labor. His disposition made him keen in the work upon which he brought to bear well-balanced judgment and attachment to his duties. In The Colonist office he had taken over some of the tasks which had been attended to by his father before him and he had won the respect and the liking of all the employees. He possessed abundantly the asset of listening patiently to the advice of the older heads of departments of the newspaper and he was willing always to stand loyally by their decisions in matters in which they were well versed.

Mr. Matson in his school days made an enviable name for himself in sports. Cricket, Rugby, Golf, Tennis, all found in him an eager devotee and one who showed prowess. Possibly golf was his favorite diversion, especially in latter years. In this game he won his blue at Cambridge, and his skill was known throughout Canada and up and down the Pacific Coast. He was a sportsman in every sense of the word, the type at games with whom it was a privilege for anyone to play, for with him it was the game always and never the prize. In social circles in Victoria he was known to everyone; indeed of the younger set he was one of the best known members in the city, and whoever had the privilege of knowing him appreciated his many good qualities and the sense of comradeship he always diffused.

The passing of Mr. Matson is an event which makes for a deep-seated feeling of sadness around the Colonist Building. The association of friendship which his father had built up with the employees of this newspaper was ably maintained by his eldest son who possessed so many personally likeable qualities, who was so courteous always to everyone, and who, by nature, was so well fitted for the newspaper profession. His death, coming within such a brief period of the demise of his father, the best known and best loved of Victoria's citizens for a long number of years, intensifies the grief that will be felt. This blow of fate to one so young seems like a tragic accident of fortune. It is no exaggeration to say that in the loss of a citizen so well known and so widely liked the deepest sympathy of the community, in which The Colonist joins in a particularly poignant way, will go out to Mrs. J. S. H. Matson, his mother; Mr. H. T. Matson, his brother, and Mrs. P. A. C. Cousland, his sister, in the heart-rending loss which the family has sustained.

THE GEORGES' FUND

The "Georges' Wedding Gift Fund" is a movement which has extended all over the Empire. It was started by a group of Georges in England including the Duke of Sutherland, Lord Luke of Pavenham, Mr. G. H. Ferguson, High Commissioner for Canada, and Messrs. George Lambert, M.P., George Lansbury, M.P., George F. Allison, George Arliss and George H. Drummond. The appeal was made before the Royal Wedding and will not close for some time. Originally it was intended to make a personal gift to the Duke of Kent. He, however, expressed the desire that the money raised should establish a permanent endowment fund for the benefit of necessitous children. It is a happy thought and the roll containing the names of all contributors will be accepted by Their Royal Highnesses Prince George and the Princess Marina as a record of those associated in the presentation.

It is on the suggestion of Mr. George Howard Ferguson that an appeal for the Fund is being made in Canada. Many small sums are expected to be subscribed. In the case of all donors of fifty cents or more receipts will be sent accompanied by a special souvenir consisting of portraits of the Royal Couple ready for framing and with the name of the donor inscribed thereon. There must be a million and more Georges in the Empire. The Fund, however, is open to all, for in commenting on it The London Times says:

"The privilege of giving is not on the present occasion severely confined to people named George, but the Johns, the Williams and the Thomases will regret their godparents' remissness; little less if, not being Georges, they may still give some form of George ('George, in old slang, was half a crown, a George noble, was a gold coin worth 5s 6d, and a Yellow George was a guinea). And Prince George and all the other Georges, men, women (for surely Georginas and Georgians may count), and Georges plain, noble and yellow together—with the Princess Marina not merely, like the Princess Sabra, looking on but taking a hand—will give battle to the grim old dragons of poverty and dullness and inanity. The poorest children will have what children need at Christmas as much as they need warmth and food, and that is a treat; sick children will have the change of air and scene which will help to make them not only well again but also fond of life. And it will all be the doing of the Georges and of the givers of Georges." All Canadian donations to the fund are to be applied for necessitous children in Canada. That is the tenor of a cable received from Lord Luke of Pavenham who is the chairman of the executive of the Fund. A letter appearing in our columns today from Lord Luke is self-explanatory and subscriptions as suggested will be received by this newspaper and in due course forwarded to their proper destination.

SERVICE AT THE ABBEY

The hymns that were sung at Westminster Abbey during the marriage service on Thursday were chosen by the Duke of Kent, and the music included an anthem specially composed for the occasion by Dr. Ernest Bullock, the organist of the Abbey, the words being selected by the Rev. C. M. Armitage, the Precentor. Not many, save those well versed in Church of England music who listened to the broadcast, could have followed that part of the service. During the procession, the hymn "Gracious Spirit, Holy Ghost" was sung to the tune by Sir John Stanley. Then in the musical end of the service immediately following the solemnization of the marriage was the singing of Psalm 67 to the music by Sir Edward C. Bairstow. Then came the Lesser Litany, the Lord's Prayer and Responses. After prayers offered by the Archbishop of York and the blessing by the Dean of Westminster, the hymn "God Be In My Head" was sung to the setting of Sir Walford Davies. Then the Archbishop of Canterbury gave his brief but memorable address followed by "Praise My Soul, The King of Heaven" (Sir John Goss). Then came the final prayer and benediction followed by the National Anthem. It was during the signing of the register that the anthem specially composed for the occasion was sung. It was as follows:

Alleluia! Alleluia!
The Lord send you help from the Sanctuary;
And strengthen you out of Zion.
Alleluia!

The Lord that made heaven and earth;
Give you blessing out of Zion.
Alleluia!

FATHER, Hear the prayer we offer!
Not for ease that prayer shall be,
But for strength, that we may ever
Live our lives courageously.

Not for ever, by still waters,
Would we idly rest and stay,
But the steep and rugged pathway
May we tread rejoicingly.

Be our Strength in hours of weakness!
In our wanderings be our Guide!
Through endeavor, failure, danger,
Father, be Thou at our side!

THE NEW INGREDIENT

It is frequently claimed that the sting of the bee (which can often induce acrobatic feats) has curative virtues of highest degree. For those who are plagued by rheumatism. But a "fly in the ointment" might here be described. In the thought of the swift tribulations arising from freely exposing one's hide to the actual bee's operations. But see how from Science new triumphs arrive. With further delights for our feasting. The patient need never trot out to the hive. But can purchase his own potted bee-sting. And that, I imagine, can then be applied. Without the same ruthless reactions. That the resolute insect itself would provide. In the course of its painful transactions. So hats off to Science, which puts it all right. And dispels any past disappointment. By removing that fly from its earlier site. And inserting the bee in the ointment!

News and Nonsense

By M. A. B.

Men and women are still dying for their religious beliefs. The days of martyrdom were not confined to past centuries. Only last Sunday in the little village of Huixtla, Mexico, twenty Christian Indians were shot down by officials who had come to remove the sacred images from the church to burn them. The brave little congregation offered passive resistance. They stood in front of the church door, blocking the entrance. The church despoilers, backed by the authority of a fanatical Government, did not hesitate. They opened fire, and four were killed and sixteen were wounded. What nobler death could a devotee of any faith wish! But the deplorable state of the world, when such things can still be, harks back to the century of the Inquisition. How can there be universal peace, when sectarians are ready to kill, on the slightest pretext, followers of the Prince of Peace because they differ on points of dogma?

Canada has already sold to the United States 10,000,000 bushels of wheat, and is now negotiating for further sales. This is gratifying to the people of the Dominion. It is of more significance, in a larger way, it again demonstrates that man-made laws cannot direct the forces of Nature. Last year, in the New Deal programme, United States Congress gave authority to the Executive to pay farmers not to produce grain. It was considered by the wise men of Washington that Old Mother Nature had made a mistake by producing more wheat than was required, therefore the thing to do was to bring Mother Nature under the N.R.A., and compel her to conform to a code. Nature went on strike this year—and out-boded the codes. The result is that Canada is selling wheat to the United States.

There is joy in the Treasury, for it has been found that British Columbians have been celebrating during the past six months. The Treasury across James Bay has measured the volume of such celebrations, and has found that they have accumulated to the Government coffers, via the Liquor Control Board, more than $500,000 above the budget for the corresponding period of a year ago. This increased consumption of potent beverages is regarded as an indication of greater spending power. There are those who would view the figures through spectacles of a more sombre hue, and stoutly maintain that the expenditure shows only a desire on the part of the public to drown their sorrows and forget the year's promises made by politicians a year ago. But an examination of the sales sheets proves such a theory to be without foundation, for British Columbians are increasing their preference for beer and native wines. When a man tries to drown his sorrow he seeks ardent spirits for the purpose of suffocation, not frothy beer. Again, it may be that the citizenry of the Province are en masse adopting a new policy of "drink and wages," by providing more employment for brewery workers and fruit growers.

Capt. C. T. P. Ulm has decided to "blaze the air trail" from Canada to Australia by leaving from Oakland. This is disappointing. It was announced by the captain that the purpose of his flight was to pioneer the route between Canada and the Australian Commonwealth. Just how this may be accomplished by taking off from California is a matter that requires some explanation. The fact that Captain Ulm has, for reasons best known to himself, changed his plans is, of course, disappointing. He had considered leaving from Long Beach. Even his contemplation of the Vancouver Island stretch of sands, however, as a suitable point of departure should be of value, for he has called attention to that long neglected asset of British Columbia. Aviation is still in its beginnings. There will be vast developments within the next few years. Flights across the Pacific will become ordinary affairs. It therefore is of utmost importance to this Province, and to Vancouver Island, that Long Beach should be put into shape for such air journey take-offs. The first requirement is to connect the place with the highway system of the Island by constructing a suitable road. This should be done in any event, for if Long Beach was made available to motorists, it would prove to be a most attractive holidaying spot. The revenue derived by the Government from the additional consumption of gasoline, alone, would contribute largely to its construction.

In London, representatives of the United States are seeking to induce Japan to modify her ambition to possess a navy as large as that of Uncle Sam, while in Arizona night-riders are hurling bombs at innocent Japanese farmers. The two viewpoints do not harmonize. Arizona objects to Japanese tilling the soil of that State. There may be economic reasons, locally, for the prejudice, but it does appear to be most absurd, inhuman and fruitless for any people to grieve vengeance on individuals of another race who have, with the consent of the Government, been admitted to that country. Often, history shows, it is the ill-treatment of individuals that results in national prejudices and war.

The most distressing piece of news in the papers yesterday told of the arrest and conviction in New Westminster of six teen-age boys charged with a series of burglaries. It is probable that if these lads had been regularly employed they would grow up to be useful citizens. It is hoped that it is not too late for them to learn the value of honest employment, and the truth that the devil finds work for idle hands.

THE "GEORGES" FUND

Sir—I have pleasure in enclosing a reprint from The Times with regard to the "Georges' Wedding Gift Appeal."

We thought the time too short to make any considerable effort overseas, but it has been suggested to us by the Hon. George Ferguson, your High Commissioner in London, that the matter would interest the press in Canada. Our appeal will not close with the date of the Royal Wedding, as, instead of accepting a personal gift, H.R.H. Prince George, Duke of Kent, desires to establish a permanent endowment fund for the benefit of necessitous children. With this end in view I would ask you to give the appeal the support of your valued columns, and I hope you will accept the appointment as our representative in the city of Victoria and open a subscription list for the fund.

We expect many small sums from a penny upwards will be given by those who cannot spare more and expenses would be unduly increased if all such contributions were acknowledged. We are, however, sending receipts to donors of 2s and upwards, accompanied by a special souvenir consisting of portraits of the Royal Couple ready for framing and with the name of the donor inscribed thereon. In addition, a roll containing the names of all contributors will be accepted by Their Royal Highnesses as a permanent record of those associated in this presentation. For Canada these arrangements would, of course, require to be slightly altered, and we suggest that you substitute "cent" for "penny," and that we send you a sufficient supply of receipt forms and souvenirs for issue from your office after we have received from you the list of names and addresses to be added to the roll of contributors.

As we would like to report to His Royal Highness from time to time how the fund is progressing, I shall be pleased to hear from you as early as possible. LUKE.

Joint Honorary Treasurer,
The "Georges' Wedding Gift Fund,"
36 Kingsway, London, W.C.2, November 8, 1934.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

BUILDING UP A MASTER

The bidding of the master player sometimes seems absolutely insane to the average onlooker. I do not mean the bidding on most hands, but the bidding which happens every now and then. There is nothing the expert enjoys so much as to try a situation and thus practically direct the subsequent bids of his opponents. This fancy bidding occurs particularly in match point duplicate games when a player is willing to gamble for a top score. Even if his gamble goes wrong he can get only one bottom.

On today's hand, for instance, South, who was one of the nation's ranking experts, made an amazing series of bids. He decided that his best chance for a top on the board would be to get the opponents to take a costly sacrifice against a probably unworkable game. Everything worked out the way South wanted it to—the opponents did the sacrifice—and then Fate, in the form of South's partner, stepped in and spoiled everything. South had fixed his opponents but he had not counted upon his partner's interference, and instead of a top score South got a bottom. Despite the difficulty of understanding South's amazing bids, I still must criticize North for interfering, as South had bid the hand in such a manner that he should have been allowed to have the final say.

West, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

1. East is too weak to make a free bid over the intervening overcall.
2. South decided to get fancy and play for a swing. He knew East to be weak and correctly deduced that his partner's overcall is a strong one but that it almost surely is not strong enough to enable North and South to make a game. South decides that he may fool the opponents if by very strong bidding he contracts for a game. The opponents in the meantime may, if taken in by South's strong bidding, decide to sacrifice in either diamonds or some other suit and be penalized. South's first step is to overcall in the opponents' bid suit. North should understand from this bid that South intends to control the bidding from now on.

3. East, having passed the first round, sees no reason why he should not cheaply show his suit at this point and possibly find a good way of outbidding the opponents.

4. South shows the works. He is gambling that West's bidding will be such that the latter will be unable to double, and will decide to raise spades or bid more diamonds.

5. West falls into South's trap. He is lured by South's very strong bidding and seeing an absolute maximum of three defensive tricks in his own hand, he decided that four hearts probably cannot be beaten, and further that four spades will be penalized less than the value of the North-South game.

6. South, who a moment ago reached the height of joy, now tumbles into the depths of despair. North's five-heart bid, in my opinion, is very bad. Admittedly North has a much stronger hand than he has indicated up to now, but it is the very strength of his own hand which should have tipped North off to the situation. North should have realized that it was impossible, with both opponents bidding, for South's terrifically strong bids to be legitimate. South's bidding was very peculiar, or South held a hand which was tremendously strong distributionally if played as hearts. If the latter were the case, South, of course, could bid five hearts himself. At any rate, North should have passed and let South take whatever action he wished.

Of course, South could have doubled four spades and defeated it very badly. Instead, North played five hearts doubled and went down three tricks. South had created a tremendous swing, but North's meddling put the wrong side on the receiving end.

The hand, unusual as it may appear, does teach one sound lesson: permit the hand which has taken control—in this case South—to keep it.

CHILDREN RAISE

SOLARIUM FUND

Concert in Basement of Home Brings in Three Dollars for Queen Alexandra Solarium

The Queen Alexandra Solarium for crippled children, yesterday, was richer by $3 as a result of a concert staged and directed by a group of children in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Groves, 227 Robertson Street. The basement was converted into a theatre, and an admission price charged. Children paid 2 cents, and adults 5 cents or more. Selling of candy also helped to swell the receipts.

Miss Barbara O'Donohue was in charge of make-up and properties. The first item on the programme was a one-act play, "The Shoe-maker's Imprisonment." The cast comprised Stanley Wright, Michael Groves, Alan Blaney and Edmond de St. Jorre.

YOUNG TALENT
IN PROGRAMMEBishop MacDonald Presents
Music Certificates at St.
Ann's Academy

Some singularly gifted children were heard in the Winter recital of St. Ann's Academy, held last evening in the crowded auditorium of the school in the presence of the new Bishop of Victoria Diocese, Rt. Rev. John Hugh MacDonald, who, in the course of the proceedings, presented Royal Academy of Music and Toronto Conservatory of Music certificates to pupils who won these during the year.

While the occasion was informal, it gained special honor by the presence of Bishop MacDonald, this being the first school concert he had attended since his arrival here. In presenting the certificates, he said a kindly word of congratulation to each of the students, whose names had previously been read by the prefect, Sister Mary Dorothea.

TWO SECTIONS

The elementary pupils came on in the early part of the evening, the more advanced students closing the programme. In the first part were little five years' old Edith Bentel-spacher, who showed the talent of a child prodigy in her playing of a waltz by Schubert; a quartette by four children of the primary school ranging in age from six to nine years: A. Rose, G. Ganner, D. P. P. and R. F. F. who played Blake's "Dawn on Mystic Lake."

Among the more advanced students, fourteen years' old Maria Balagano, the young Prince Rupert pianist who has been heard in recital in Victoria before, was outstanding among the instrumentalists, giving a dazzling performance of Arensky's "Concert Etude," and Guion's "Harmonica Player." A very charming voice was shown by Elaine Besante, a ten years' old singer, whose number was "Little Lady Bird" (K. Elliott).

OTHER NUMBERS

Other numbers on the programme were as follows:
Opening chorus, by the older resident pupils, "Night" (I. Wilton), led by M. Batchelor, A. Byrom and E. Besante; piano, "Traditional Air," Dagmar Bendrovi; vocal, "Miss Poppy" (E. Goodspeed), Sheila Dagg; duet, "Aria" (J. Edwards), Kenneth and Moya Porter; trio, "Dreams" (Paul Bliss), M. Boothie, V. Hannigan, P. Thomas; piano, "Try to Catch Me" (MacLachlan), Joan Dames; piano, "Hungarian," Joan Dames; piano, "Hungarian," Joan Dames; piano, "Hungarian," Joan Dames.

Those to whom certificates of the Royal Academy were presented were as follows: V. Colbert (for harmony); piano, Lucy Thomas, Myra Batchelor, Betty Whitaker, Dorothy Anderson, Pearl Thomas, Patricia Byrom and Violet Hannigan. The Toronto Conservatory certificates were: Piano, Evelyn Lucas, and June Byrom (honors); and theory, June Byrom (first with honors).

Victoria Organization Entertains Salt Spring Island Team With Return Engagement

Members of the City Chess Club were hosts to a visiting team from Salt Spring Island at their clubrooms, Langley Street, last night. The match was in the form of a return engagement, the City Chess Club having sent a team to Salt Spring Island last summer. At adjournment last night, the result stood: City Chess Club, six games; Salt Spring Island, two, and drawn, one.

The visiting team comprised E. Parsons, S. Newman, W. Mount and S. Wagg. A. Mansfield, of the City Chess Club, was loaned to the visitors to make the tournament possible with five tables. Each member of the visiting team played two games against two different members of the local club.

WELL SUPPORTED

The City Chess Club is a rapidly-growing organization and is being well supported by local chess players. It grew from a group of four, Fredrick, Willis, T. Alcock, J. Thornburn and J. Morgan, who met in a studio several years ago. From that beginning, the club has grown to considerable size, and is now endeavoring to secure matches with the P.P.C.L.L. city firemen and the French naval training ship Jeanne d'Arc, which will visit Victoria in January.

Mr. Morgan, who is vice-president of the club, holds the distinction of being president of the Canadian Correspondents' Chess Club of Canada. Mr. Willis is the president of the local club.

The club is now interesting many young men in the game, and hopes shortly to be able to arrange classes since so much interest has been evinced in the game by those who have come in contact with the club.

T.B. PREVENTION

May we remind you that the annual Christmas seal sale is now in progress. If you have not yet purchased your Christmas seals from your local tuberculosis association, do so at once in order that they may be assured of having adequate funds to carry on their valuable programme of tuberculosis prevention and control during the coming year.

MORE CLAIMS
BEING WORKEDAir Pilots Say Great Bear
Lake Camps Busier
Than Ever

REGINA, Nov. 30 (CP).—Though newspapers have ceased to "spotlight" activity in the Great Bear Lake region, where the discoveries of pichblende and other ores threatened for a time to start another Klondike rush, there are more claims being worked and more things happening there than ever before, in the opinion of Pilot E. L. Leigh and Engineer F. E. Kelly. They are awaiting lifting of the fog to continue their interrupted flight from Winnipeg to McMurray, Alta.

C. H. "Punch" Dickens, one of the most famous Northern pilots, now superintendent of operations for his company in the Mackenzie River country, said that the Great Bear Lake area is a hive of activity for aircraft. Supplies and men are freighted in and ore is carried out, 11,500 pounds at a time. The ore is carried in sacks, weighing about 100 pounds each.

Both pilot and engineer were sure the development at present in the North is but a mere beginning of what is to come.

TIED OF CITIES

They had been "out" for a month, awaiting completion of work on their planes. It seems that one month is quite enough. "You certainly get tired of the cities in that time, and it's a real pleasure to know you are on your way back," said Pilot Leigh.

There are at present seven aircraft using McMurray as base in the north. Six airmail flights a year are made to Akavik on the Arctic Ocean, three in summer and three in winter. Other points not so far distant get a better service, and Great Bear Lake area is a hive of activity for aircraft. Supplies and men are freighted in and ore is carried out, 11,500 pounds at a time. The ore is carried in sacks, weighing about 100 pounds each.

ASSERTS ISSUE
BEING EVADEDStevens Says Federal Gov't
Takes No Aggressive Stand on Jurisdiction

OTTAWA, Nov. 30 (CP).—When difficulties of jurisdiction between the Dominion and provinces had arisen, the Dominion had made no aggressive attempt to occupy the field, Hon. H. H. Stevens declared today in an interview in which he took issue with a recent speech delivered by his former colleague, Secretary of State C. H. Cahan.

Mr. Cahan had indicated that authority for remedying much of the alleged abuses disclosed by the mass buying probe was within the jurisdiction of the provinces.

Declaring that the legal attitude from time immemorial in dealing with complex matters of government has merely been an evasion of responsibility, Mr. Stevens added that "the lawyers have almost invariably steered Parliament to evade the real issue, rather than seek a means of overcoming it."

Both Mr. Bennett and Mr. Cahan are sticklers for the "solidarity of the Cabinet." One must naturally imply that Mr. Cahan was voicing Government policy. If that be true, then it is to be assumed he was serving notice that the Government intends to do nothing to carry out the findings of its own Royal Commission.

"A few legal scarecrows are set up and the case is rested there, but the public will not be content with that situation. It would be a frank confession of the failure of the institution of government as we have it. The legal attitude is far from new."

"We are told that the Dominion has no authority over labor conditions, wages, trades practices, profit, etc. And yet section 91 of the British North America Act specifically vests in the Dominion control of trade and commerce. Not external trade, or inter-provincial trade, but all trade and commerce. We have never made the least effort to occupy that field, because the legal mind has fallen back to property and civil rights law, ignoring the Federal jurisdiction."

"I recall another instance in 1920. J. H. Rumball, then member for West Peterboro, and I moved in the House that Canada take the necessary steps to carry out the terms of the labor agreement signed at Geneva. We dealt specifically with the eight-hour day. The lawyers said we had no power. They said property and civil rights intervened to give jurisdiction to the provinces."

"And yet the British North America Act gives the Dominion sole authority to enter into treaties and agreements with their powers, and it gives the Dominion power to carry out the terms of such treaties. It is a reasonable presumption that the Federal authority to implement its treaties is paramount to authority held by the provinces which might defeat that purpose. Here again the lawyers steered Parliament to evade the responsibility, and no effort was made to establish Dominion supremacy."

"I shall have more to say upon the subject later and will be content to leave it to the public to say if they will be satisfied with the drawing of liberal catch of legal herring upon the trail of human suffering and economic wreckage consequent upon business practices that are being exposed."

Humanity, with an instinctive desire to help and protect the less fortunate members of the race, has answered the challenge of the forces arrayed against them in many ways. Unique among these is the message of the Christmas Seal which has become so universal in its appeal and has so successfully filled its mission that it has now become the common emblem of crusaders against Tuberculosis throughout the world.

The Christmas Seal reminds us that Tuberculosis, long the most deadly enemy of the human race, is not yet completely vanquished, and at the same time affords every one who writes a letter, or sends a gift, an opportunity of sharing in this useful and necessary work; it has been welcomed in every corner of the globe as a message of hope and good cheer.

Canadians are justly proud of the achievements of the past thirty years which have placed them in the forefront of those nations in which Tuberculosis is steadily but surely giving ground. In reaching this enviable position, the Canadian Tuberculosis Association has played and will continue to play a worthy part. From the sale of Christmas Seals, it has been gradually able to extend its usefulness and to initiate preventive measures in many districts where the need is great.

As Patron and Patroness of the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, we commend this humanitarian work to every Canadian citizen, with the hope that the Christmas Seal sale may continue to receive such generous support as will enable the Association to enlarge its services throughout the whole Dominion.

Detroit Couple Plead Guilty to Charge of Attempting to Extort $10,000

DETROIT, Nov. 30 (AP).—George A. Carpenter, thirty-four, and his twenty-nine-year-old wife, Bernice, were charged today with attempting to extort $10,000 from Daniel Sorenson, Toronto businessman and Carpenter's uncle, under threats of kidnapping his young son and daughter.

The commissioner referred the case to the Federal grand jury and sent the Carpenters to the psychopathic ward of a receiving hospital under $2,500 bond each.

They were arrested on Wednesday by Detroit police after a dummy package had been delivered at the hotel where they live, in accordance with instructions contained in a letter Sorenson received on November 24.

CAUGHT IN TRAP

Inspector John Hoffman, of the Detroit police, asserted that Carpenter admitted dictating the letter to his wife, warning Sorenson that unless $10,000 was turned over within twenty-four hours a "big automobile with four men" would take his children.

Sorenson, president of the Toronto Motor Car Company, and until a year ago superintendent of the Toronto plant of the Ford Motor Company, Limited, of Canada, communicated with the Toronto police.

HARDLY EXCITED AT ALL

TORONTO, Nov. 30 (CP).—A nineteen-year-old debutante tonight calmly went on with her preparations for a tea dance, while a brother, six years her junior, got his home-work finished, as usual. Margaret Sorenson and thirteen-year-old Donald were hardly excited at all about the kidnap threat disclosed when Mr. and Mrs. George Carpenter were arrested in Detroit, charged with attempting to extort $10,000 from Daniel M. Sorenson.

The kidnap note which threatened abduction of Sorenson's children, according to Detroit police, was written by Carpenter, nephew of the Toronto automobile sales executive. Daniel Sorenson was not in Toronto today—reports were that he was in Detroit, but his firm denied this—and the children's mother would not discuss the case.

BETTER CHOIR MUSIC NEEDED

Dr. Sydney Nicholson, of English Church Music School, Here

"As England is the home of English church music, we naturally look to the best choirs in England to furnish us with the standard of what church choir music should be elsewhere," said Dr. Sydney H. Nicholson, M.V.O., M.A., Mus.Doc., F.R.C.O., in the course of a hat with a Colonialist reporter who saw him shortly after his arrival here on the R.M.S. Niagara from Australia and New Zealand.

Dr. Nicholson is director of the School of English Church Music, London, and is now on his way back to the Old Land after spending some months in the Antipodes. He has no definite programme for a tour across this continent, but it is probable that he will speak at a number of places just as he will in Victoria, where he is to give an address this evening at the Memorial Hall on "In Choirs and Places Where They Sing," and on Sunday evening at Christ Church Cathedral on "Church Music." This morning, also, he will talk to clergy, ministers, choirmasters, and organists of all denominations on this same subject.

NEW AFFILIATIONS
The School of English Church Music, Northumberland Avenue, London, is the outgrowth of a society founded in 1927 "to promote the development of church music on the lines advocated in the report of the Archbishop's committee on 'Music in Worship'." It has gradually built up a big affiliation of choirs, and it was with the idea of visiting affiliated choirs in Australia that he went there last July. When he arrived, there were but fifteen affiliations in that country, and this has now been extended to seventy. His visit to New Zealand resulted in twenty new affiliations, and he hopes for an equivalent in the near future.

Dr. Nicholson is a general up-grader in English church music," he said, speaking of the activities of the school he represents, and other organizations working along similar lines. The college of St. Nicholas, Chislehurst, Kent, is the "workshop" of his school, and gives practical training in all branches of church music, as well as special courses for choirmasters, for ordination candidates and clergy, for lady choirmasters and organists, and for choirboys from parish churches.

ENCOURAGE BOYS

In Australia and New Zealand he had noticed a dearth of men in choirs. This made him emphatic in favoring the use of boys in choirs, first because all the classical music was written for boys' treble voices, "and could not be properly interpreted without boys' voices," and, secondly, because only by having boys in choirs could they expect to prepare men. In the two countries which he has just visited the men in choirs were nearly all Englishmen, evidently formerly choir boys in Old Country churches. With some interest, he asked what the conditions were in Canada, and if there was any difficulty in securing the required number of male voices.

CALE CLUB HAS INITIAL MEETING

The first meeting of the 1935 Saanich Jersey Calf Club was held on Friday at Professor Straight's home on the Dominion Experimental Farm, Sidney. The professor and Mrs. Straight, who take the greatest interest in the conduct of the club, had invited its members, their parents, and Messrs. Aylard, Burbridge and Douglas, the committee of the Saanich Club, which sponsors the calf club, to make the initial meeting also a social one, so that there was a large gathering.

H. E. Burbridge opened the proceedings by expressing to Professor Straight the thanks of all concerned for his help with previous clubs, and asked him to act again as adult member of the 1935 club, to which he agreed, and taking the chair, he called on members to sign the roll.

Those signing were S. Sery, P. Hoole, P. Austin, D. Austin, G. Malcolm, K. Gibbs, R. Munro, M. Raper, D. Lawson and R. Evans.

The ballot for officers resulted in election of P. Austin, president, and D. Lawson, secretary. Club meetings will be on the first Friday in each month.

Business being finished, the professor introduced his daughter, Miss Gertrude Straight, and Mr. Jones, who sang some old favorites, ably assisted by Mrs. Straight at the piano. Mr. Holland, of Sidney, briefly spoke upon the method of cutting up a side of beef and the relative value of the various cuts.

More songs followed, one being "The Star of the West," sung by Mr. Jones in Welsh, and finally by Miss Jean Straight at the piano, the National Anthem was sung. Refreshments were served, and on the proposal of Mr. Hoole, hearty thanks were offered to the professor and his family for a very pleasant evening.

On the next day the drawing for calves was made at each Fair Grounds, and entries being closed, the members start fairly on the year's work, which terminates in the Fall fairs.

MANY PAYING TAX ARREARS

Receipts From Overdue Accounts Steadily Climb as Penalty Date Nears

The city treasury department yesterday began to feel the brunt of last minute payments on current taxes when property holders started to come in to pay up overdue accounts before the final penalty of 5 per cent is added on Tuesday, thus bringing the total penalty up to 8 per cent.

Collections up to the close of yesterday amounted approximately to $4,300. It is expected that this morning and Monday will see an even greater number of tax accounts paid than was the case yesterday.

Since the beginning of the week, the amount collected has been steadily climbing so that treasury department officials are quite hopeful that the year's estimate of collections will be exceeded.

VETERANS MAY JOIN TOGETHER

Hope Co-operation of Former Enemies May Allay Fear of Hitler

PARIS, Nov. 30 (AP).—A co-operative effort of French and German war veterans to allay France's fear of Adolf Hitler was seen, tonight, as one possible result of the visit of General Joachim von Ribbentrop, Hitler's personal emissary, who arrived in Paris today.

Von Ribbentrop reached the French capital just as Pierre Laval, French Foreign Minister, was preparing to outline to Parliament the future French policy toward Germany.

The Reichsfuehrer's envoy was reported trying to bring representatives of the two great nations' war soldiers together, through Deputy Juan Goy, whom he is visiting.

If he finds the collaboration possible, Von Ribbentrop is expected to return to Paris later with Rudolf Hess, vice-fuehrer and Hitler's lieutenant, who would act as spokesman for the German veterans. Hess last July appealed to French veterans for friendship toward Germany, in an address he delivered in East London.

Comments looking toward the veterans' co-operation were described as "unofficial," it was reported, with the likelihood that Von Ribbentrop and Hess also would talk informally with Laval and Premier Pierre-Elie Flamand.

Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson Allows Increase Out of Father's Estate to Son

Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson, in a judgment handed down yesterday, disposes of the application made to him at the instance of Howard Jones for certain alterations in the codicil to the will of his father, Stephen Jones, with respect to himself. The decision of His Lordship, after hearing counsel for all the other members of the family, and the trustees under the will, is in favor of granting the petitioner, Howard Jones, $200 out of the estate per month until further order instead of $70 as set out. At the same time, His Lordship adjourned further consideration of the matter as might be deemed wise.

The increase of the allowance under the will to the petitioner was supported, it was pointed out by the court, by the mother, the other brother and all the members of the family who had come of age, and were, therefore, in a position to have their views expressed. In his judgment, reference is made to the fact that Howard is establishing himself in business in the city, and that he has $5,000 of his own which was given him by his father. After reviewing the principles that are laid down in various cases dealing with this subject, the court reached the conclusion that in the interests of all the course he has taken, would be the best for Howard Jones, on to meet the conditions which would appear to be in the best interests of all concerned.

WHALING OUTLINED TO CHURCH GROUP

Charles Sharpe Explains to Falmouths Exciting Industry in Northern Waters

The monthly meeting of the Falmouths Club of Metropolitan United Church was held at the home of George Cliff, Richardson Street, on Thursday evening. Donald Wheldon, the president, was in the chair. Rev. J. H. A. Warr led a brief devotional period under the theme, "Rocks and Reefs."

One of the members, Charles Sharpe, gave an interesting and instructive talk on his experiences in the North aboard a whaling ship. He told of the various kinds of whales, their particular mode of living, and especially described how they acted when they had been struck with a harpoon, or several such weapons. He showed a number of pictures that he had taken of a number of the whales and other points of interest.

Jack Church, the newly-appointed editor-in-chief of the Falmouths' paper, presented the first issue to the group. A motion of appreciation to the editor and his associates was unanimously passed for their work on the paper.

MINSTREL SHOW

Plans were furthered for the production of the second annual minstrel show, which is to be presented in the latter part of January. Report was given that the group's candidate for the boys' parliament, George Nicholson, had been appointed to one of the seats in the next session of the parliament, to be held during the last week in December in the Parliament Buildings.

The evening closed with the serving of refreshments, through the courtesy of Mrs. Cliff, to whom a vote of deep appreciation was conveyed. The next meeting will be held on Thursday, December 20, at the home of Jack Church, Pandora Avenue.

Little Bedtime Stories

Blacky the Crow's Terrible Experience

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

The news that Redtail the Hawk had once more seen the terrible stranger who was so big that beside him old King Eagle looked tiny, and that Blacky the Crow had heard the strange humming sound which the stranger made had spread all over the Green Meadows and through the Green Forest. Some of the little folks believed it and were at once filled with a great and nameless fear. Others, like Reddy Fox and Old Man Coyote and Buster Bear laughed at it, and pretended not to believe a word of it, though if the truth be known right down inside they had a most uneasy feeling.

Then one day, one beautiful day in the Fall, all doubts were put at rest. A strange sound filled all the air, growing louder and louder. It seemed to come from the sky, and all the little people in the Green Forest and the Green Meadows and the Old Pasture and the Old Orchard turned their eyes skyward. Far away a tiny speck appeared, way up in the blue sky. Larger it grew and larger, while with fear clutching at their hearts all the little people stared and wondered. Suddenly Black the Crow appeared far away across the Green Meadows, heading straight for the Green Forest, and none had ever seen Blacky fly as he was flying then.

Down dashed the stranger toward Blacky and then all the little people saw that what Redtail had said was true. Bigger and bigger, bigger and bigger grew the stranger until he had become such a giant as no one had ever dreamed of. Poor Blacky, screaming at the top of his hoarse voice, seemed to be standing still, so fast did the stranger fly.

Under, above, in front of Blacky, he hid in the thickest clump of hemlock trees of which he knew.

wheeled the terrible giant, and drove Blacky where he pleased. The humming had grown to a roar which made all the little watchers shiver and shake. What would the stranger do to Blacky? Why didn't he seize Blacky? As for Blacky himself, his fright was so great that it was all he could do to keep his wings moving. Do what he would he could not reach the Green Forest. He had to go as this terrible giant drove him, and in his heart there was no hope left.

And then as suddenly as he had darted at Blacky this terrible giant left him. Up, up, up he went in great circles just as does O' Mistah Buzzard. Smaller he grew and smaller until he was no more than a speck. As for Blacky, panting, weary, too frightened even to talk, he hid in the thickest clump of hemlock trees of which he knew.

Each Little Dionne Now Has a Life-Sized "Twin" for Her Companion

No, it's not decaplets, as the picture seems to indicate, and the famous Dionne five have not been eclipsed by a tenfold natural wonder. The truth is that the most talked of babies in the world have been presented with an early Christmas present. Each tiny Dionne now has a "twin" in the life-sized dolls interspersed between them. The puzzle is to discern which is which. Maybe the look of disapproval on the face of the third mite from the left will give you a lead. An enterprising New York firm has lately introduced quintuplet dolls into many homes. Complete with five tiny feeding bottles and hot water bags, they are starting a new fad. Debs and grown-ups are buying them by hundreds, it is reported.

St. Andrew has been regarded from time immemorial as the patron saint of Scotland and his day, November 30, is a favorite occasion of social and national reunion amid Scotsmen residing in England and other places abroad. In many communities the occasion has been singled out as one of particular merry-making and festivity, though up to the present time St. Andrew's dances have not been included in the scheme of Scottish celebration at the Empress Hotel on this day.

Last evening saw the first St. Andrew's dance in the Crystal Ballroom, and a most delightful cabaret was held. It was an outstanding success, largely attended, and the gay tartans of the officers of the Canadian Scottish Regiment, who were present, together with the bright flag decorations added a characteristic and brilliant note of color to the gathering.

The orchestra had donned Scottish bonnets for the occasion and the orchestra platform was decorated with flags. Superimposed on a black back curtain was the Scottish lion, while the Cross of St. Andrew held a prominent place in the decorations in the Crystal Ballroom.

SPECIAL NUMBERS
The programme opened with the "Reel of Tulloch," danced by Nan Ferguson, Maryann Peterson, Adeline Grant and Lillian Grant. This was followed by an exhibition of the "Sword Dance," by Nan Ferguson and Adeline Grant. Another favorite Scottish dance, the "Seann Truibhas," was performed by Lillian Grant and Maryann Peterson, and a military "Tap Dance" was performed by Thelma Stratford and Kathleen Mann. The ever-popular "Highland Fling" was given by Nan Ferguson, Maryann Peterson, Adeline Grant and Lillian Grant, and the final number of the programme was the "Sailors' Hornpipe," by Maryann Peterson and Lillian Grant. The pipers were Ian Duncan and Jimmy McMillan. Cheers after cheered the dancers and the guests were insistent in their demands for encores.

Not only were these highly-skilled Scottish dancers in evidence last night. The officers of the Canadian Scottish Regiment and their wives took part in the "Eighteen Reel" and other square dances. For some time they have been practising

"THE CHILD"

By REGINALD H. WOODS, M.D., C.M., L.M.C.C.

EXAMINATIONS IN TIME OF HEALTH PREVENT DISEASE
Read yesterday's article on "Prevention of Disease."

Grandmother vehemently objected. "Why take a child to the clinic when he is well. I never heard of such a thing." Grandmother spoke the truth. She had never heard of such a thing in her day, because in a lesser period than fifty years ago children's clinics were nonexistent and disease was stressed even more so than today, to the exclusion of health and prevention of disease.

Many of the mothers who come before me at the clinic have told me that either grandmother or an older neighbor said they "never heard of such a thing," and raised numerous objections as to the futility of taking a well child to a clinic.

For the benefit of the older generation may I state that medical science (in contradistinction to medical practice) has progressed and made greater advance in the last fifty years than in any half-century previous.

It is a question which the modern up-to-the-minute parent has to decide: Am I going to seek advice on the proper and adequate care and training of my child from those who know, or continue alone in the same old fashion, depending on grandmother's advice, which had its origin in and applied to a period when little was known of the proper care and training of our children.

Lieut.-Governor Pays Honor to Chief Justice

The Chief Justice of British Columbia, Hon. J. A. Macdonald, and Mrs. Macdonald, entertained at a small tea party yesterday afternoon at their home on St. Charles Street, in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his appointment to the British Columbia Court of Appeal.

Mrs. Gordon Hunter and Mrs. Harry Morden presided at the tea table, which was charmingly arranged with flowers and lighted tapers. Among the guests was His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, with Mrs. J. W. Fordham Johnson, and in a short address, His Honor conveyed to the Chief Justice the good wishes of the guests as well as of the people of British Columbia.

"It gives me considerable pleasure and I seize the opportunity furnished by this informal gathering," said His Honor, "to pay tribute to the services rendered to the State by our honorable friend, the Chief Justice. First appointed in 1909 Chief Justice of the Appeal Court of British Columbia, and later Chief Justice of the Province, we are today celebrating his twenty-fifth year of service in that high and particularly important office."

"Official service calls in a special degree for a sense of duty to the public trust and in many cases for a spirit of sacrifice and, if needs be, self-effacement, and such are the qualities demanded of him who would aspire to the high office of Chief Justice of a province of our Dominion."

"During the past twenty-five years, Chief Justice Macdonald has purposely applied these several attributes in the performance of the duties of his office. His sense of duty to the public trust, his spirit of sacrifice, and the effacement of personal interests, have secured for him an admiration rivaled only by that for his judicial attainments, which stand as modern examples of the best tradition of British justice."

"British Columbia is particularly proud of his interpretation of this duty to the public trust, and on behalf of the people of the Province, the mothers of the Sea Scouts will co-operate with the W.A. in making this activity successful. Those interested are asked to telephone Mrs. W. Duncan, Cedar Hill Road. Members are asked to notice that the December meeting has been cancelled."

Proceeds From Annual Affair Will Again Be Used to Provide Shoes for Needy Children — Many Novelties Enjoyed

Once more the Agricultural Hall at Saanichton was the scene of a large gathering when the annual Saanich Police ball was held last night, under the auspices of the police commission. The committee included Chief Allen Raskin, as chairman; members of the police force, Sergeant P. Kenneth Cummings, Constables Josiah Bull, Eric Elwell, Wallace Wood and Miss Helen Elliott, secretary of the Saanich Police Welfare Association.

The hall was transformed into a beautiful setting with flags of all nations, which were arranged along the walls and suspended from the ceiling. An eight-piece orchestra supplied the music and arranged many novelties. The feature of the evening was the serving of a chicken supper by the North and South Saanich Women's Institute, under the direction of Mrs. Turgoose.

More than 700 guests attended, and among those specially invited were Reeve William Crouch and Commissioners A. E. Scalfie and L. W. Goddard, the Saanich Municipal Council, including Councillors Fred Borden, Edward C. Warren, G. A. Vantreigh, W. R. Woods, H. D. Coton, L. G. Hagan and G. S. Eden; the chief of the Victoria police, Thomas Heatley; Esquimalt Chief of Police H. W. V. Pecknold, Oak Bay Chief of Police John Symes, and Inspector Robert Owens, of the Provincial Police.

As is the custom of the police commission every year, the proceeds from the ball will be devoted to supplying shoes for needy children of Saanich during the winter months. The city police force had charge of directing of traffic and parking of automobiles.

TO RETURN TO ROYAL THEATRE

Dr. Clem Davies Will Change "Question Box" Series to New Platform

Rev. Dr. Clem Davies will return tomorrow to the Royal Victoria Theatre, the scene of his long and successful ministry for over seven years, during which period of occupancy of the city's largest auditorium many thousands were attracted Sabbath by Sabbath. Coincidentally the well-known Victoria preacher will celebrate not only his return to the Royal Victoria, but the completion of twelve years of unbroken pulpit ministry, and also his natal day, which occurs on December 3.

Arrangements have been completed with C. E. Denham whereby the spacious theatre can be used as a permanent Sabbath home for Dr. Davies' services.

The ever-popular question box will bring forth the following queries to be dealt with on Sunday night:

"Would Victoria citizens be justified in returning Mayor Leeming for another term in the civic chair?"

"How shall I start to teach my little child about God?"

"What are some of the indications of the rumblings of the approaching world-storm?"

"Are British-Israelites in Victoria divided amongst themselves?"

"Are chain stores in Victoria short-weighting their customers?"

"Do you agree to taking from single men ten dollars to relieve the burden on property owners, as advocated by the Ratepayers' Association?"

"Is it fair for an official to receive a salary of $10,000 and a pension of $2,000?"

"In the reappearance of prehistoric monsters, do you think there is any significance?"

"Are you in favor of an all-round abolition of national military and naval aircraft by international agreement?"

Lesson to Denounce Hypnotism
"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Allas Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday. The golden text is "Beloved, follow not that which is evil, but that which is good. He that doeth good is of God, but he that doeth evil hath not seen God" (III John 1, 11).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong" (I Corinthians xvi, 13).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health, With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Science only can explain the incredible good and evil elements now coming to the surface. Mortals must find refuge in truth in order to escape the error of these latter days."

Bishop Schofield Is Graduate of Portsea
Local Diocesan Gave Service as Curate in Early Days of Dr. C. G. Lang, Now Primate of England

To the list of Anglican bishops who have "graduated" at Portsea in the Isle of Wight, England, must be added that of the present Bishop of Columbia. Four bishops who were associated with that city are mentioned in the Diocese of England Newspaper: Dr. Cosmo G. Lang, the present Primate of England; the present Bishop of Winchester; the late Dr. Jacob, formerly of Newcastle and then of St. Alban's; and Canon Geoffrey Lunt, who succeeds the late Dr. Burroughs as Bishop of Ripon.

Dr. Rev. C. D. Schofield has a place in this distinguished company, in that for some years he was a curate under Dr. Lang, when this distinguished churchman was vicar of St. Mary's at Portsea.

Of the Primate in those days and his curates one has written: "Look into the Portsea vicarage. Here are nineteen young men, all single, living with fine camaraderie the community life. They have a common table and the vicar shares equally with his eighteen curates the plainness of the fare and the simple equipment of a study and bedroom each. The parish income was 'small and Dr. Lang himself (for he was no financier) was compelled at times to get a temporary loan from one or another of his curates. A spiritual atmosphere prevailed."

The coming leader of his church knit this group into a band of workers, who, in a genuine and wise way, endeavored to bring Christianity to the people. They became inspired with his vision and moved by his spiritual warmth.

What Today Means

"SAGITTARIUS"

If December 1 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m., from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m., from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m., and from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m.

The course of December 1's events may reflect your own mental attitude, so if you wish to have an enjoyable one, let nothing but pleasant thoughts occupy your mind. If there is a matter requiring your attention, it is advisable not to let a social engagement cause you to neglect it, for unpleasant complications might arise. Morbid curiosity had best be curbed on this date, so if you are wise do not pry into matters that do not concern you. It might be well to draw your own conclusions regarding a person you might meet who may try to impress you by making a number of pretentious claims regarding his social and business position, as well as future financial prospects. If you attend a social gathering be cautious regarding remarks of a personal nature, for a friend of the person inspiring the comment might be among those present. Married and engaged couples, as well as those tired of leading a single existence, may find the day will come to a happier ending if any selfish desire is suppressed in favor of a wish expressed by wife, fiancée or sweetheart. If a woman, and December 1 is your natal day, you possess probably one of the greatest of all gifts, the faculty of not only being happy yourself, but being able to make others likewise. The fact that you do not make a god out of money may be the means of attracting it to you.

A profession enabling you to doctor to the mental as well as physical ailments of mankind might give you the opportunity of demonstrating your unselfishness. Nursing, kindergarten and social welfare work might prove of great interest to you. A congenial and sympathetic husband should help you secure the happiness you deserve. The child born on December 1 generally, as it grows up, proves to be a veritable ray of sunshine in its home. Everything possible should be done to shield this child from the sordid and seamy side of life. The reading requires careful supervision, as does its associates. If a man, and December 1 is your birthday, your sense of humor, as well as ready repartee, assures both popularity and many friends. If you can write as well as you can talk, a literary career might bring both fame and money. Some form of research work, geology, ethnology, as well as biology, painting and law, offer you opportunities.

CHRISTMAS SEALS
Presents you buy for unknown persons sometimes carry a message far beyond their apparent value as a gift. Health is prized by many as the most precious possession. You can give it by purchasing the Christmas seals that you will soon be sent by the Kiwanis Club of Victoria. Your support of their work enables them to bring health to many persons throughout the year.

YOUNG LIBERALS ROUND-UP

When the liner leaves here, she will have 207 passengers in all classes aboard.

Bound to San Francisco and Wilmington, the Pacific Steamship Lines S.S. Emma Alexander is due here this evening from Seattle to embark Island and Mainland passengers going to California. The Emma Alexander is due at the local docks at 10 o'clock, and is scheduled to sail South at midnight.

M. J. Miller, of Seattle, submitted the best bid of $8,000 for the purchase of the coast guard cutter Snohomish, now lying in Washington, where the bids were opened. The Snohomish is of 870 tons displacement, 152 feet long over all and is a single screw coal-burning ship with steel hull. The Snohomish is well known in these waters, and has rendered assistance to shipping in distress a number of times.

A Hamburg shipyard has developed a new pneumatic siren for ships which produces an unusually deep tone capable of being heard long distances. The new siren is claimed to be superior to whistles or horns operated by steam or compressed air in that it requires very little power, an important advantage when blowing for sustained periods in a fog. A further valuable feature is that it cannot become frozen in cold weather and may be fitted, without regard to the piping, on the foremast or in the bows of a vessel. A ship equipped with the new siren, it is claimed, is "in the shadow," so that the men on "lookout" are not affected by its sound but can readily hear much weaker sound signals being emitted from other sources.

OFFICIALS RESIGN
Three high officials of the Hamburg-American-North German Lloyd Line resigned recently, reportedly because of disagreement with the Nazi Government's shipping policy. This brought to six the number of German shipping officials who have resigned in the last few weeks for similar reasons. Resignations announced were those of Max Obusier, chairman of the board of the Hamburg-American Company, and two directors, Marius Boeger and Dr. Leisler Klep. The latter is a brother of Dr. Otto Hiep, former German Consul-General at New York. Prior to the above resignations, those of Directors Stadlaender and Ritter, of the same company, had been accepted.

BURIED AT SEA
There have been various instances in which, instead of commonplace breaking up, deliberate sinking at sea has been carried out when a ship has grown old, states a writer in the November issue of P.L.A. Monthly. "The Coromandel was an iron bark formerly belonging to Messrs. Shaw, Savill & Albion Company, being built at Glasgow in 1875 for the India trade, but was chartered by Shaw, Savill for New Zealand in 1878. She was a popular ship for emigrants. Her best run was London to Lytleton in ninety-two days. Later she traded between New Zealand and Australian ports for some years; became a coal hulk for the Union Steamship Company of New Zealand; and now the increasing use of oil caused the verdict of her execution to go forth." She was sunk in a deep-water spot beyond Wellington Heads.

Chief Purser of French Line Make Selections for Normandie's Staff

No brigadier-general, commanding two regiments of infantry of 100 men each, knows all the members of his command even by sight, much less by name and personal history. But the chief purser of any French Line steamer with a few years of service behind him, becomes sufficiently well acquainted with the civil personnel of the company to enable him to recite the personal history and qualifications of each, in amazing detail.

One day recently, in Havre, Henry Villard, Jean Henry and Louis Mallet, chief pursers of the French Line, who will be in charge of the civil personnel of the new mammoth liner Normandie, world's largest ship, on her entry into service in May, 1935, sat before lists of 2,000 or more maitres d'hôtel, chefs de réception, chefs de cuisine, bar-men, captain waiters, dining-room stewards, cabin stewards, and plain "bell-hops," and selected almost half of the staff which will serve under them on the new ship.

HAD NO DIFFICULTY
With all the civil employees of the Ile de France, Paris, Cuba, Champlain, Lafayette and Mexico from which to choose, these three famous trans-Atlantic hosts had no difficulty in making their choice. Villard's experience dates from the days of the war, Henry's and Mallet's began at the same time, on the old Lafayette (now the Mexico), in 1921. Most of the employees have served under all of them, at one time or another. To all three, each name brings up a face, and a record which includes the man's character, his record of service, his ability to handle the English language, and in many instances, such personal details as to whether married or a bachelor; if married, the number of his family, and whether he is careful with his money or a spendthrift, a Catholic or a Protestant, etc.

But the only information which really counts with the purser is: Is the man a good one in his job? With this in mind, Villard, Henry and Mallet selected the civil personnel of what will be the largest moving unit in the history of the world.

That Body of

HOW YOU MAY LIVE SAFELY WITH ANGINA PECTORIS
You are reading every day of the sudden death of middle-aged men who have been afflicted with angina pectoris, yet you know of one or more men who have had angina pectoris for years who seem to live a normal life despite occasional attacks. As you know, two little blood vessels, about the size of goose quills, receive blood from the large vessel pumping blood out of the heart—the aorta—and it is these small vessels that supply the heart muscle itself with blood. The heart muscle must have blood just like any other part or organ of the body in order to do its work. Now, if the heart muscle is not getting enough blood it will not be able to do its work properly, and so if these little blood vessels feeding it have lost their elasticity, or have a spasm, then blood can't pass through them to feed the heart muscle. This is what happens in angina pectoris and explains why the patient has the tight pain in the chest and has the fear that he is going to die. The heart pumps about four or five quarts of blood to all parts of the body every minute when you are at rest, and can pump ten times that much—forty quarts—per minute if you are working hard. Similarly it is estimated that these little vessels feeding the heart receive about five per cent of the whole flow of blood, nearly half a pint passes through them when the body is at rest and nearly two quarts, or half a gallon, passes through them when you are working or exercising hard. The point, then, is that even if you have angina pectoris but do not work hard so as to need more than the usual few ounces of blood passing through these vessels you may live a goodly number of years. Further, if, in addition to not working hard physically, you do not get excited or upset in your mind, you are not likely to have a spasm in these little vessels, because the spasm can be checked the flow of blood just as can hardened or non-elastic blood vessels. This, then, explains to a considerable extent the cause of death in angina pectoris, and also why so many are able to live safely despite occasional attacks.

Alexander Bremner, who was injured in an accident aboard the S.S. The deceased had been employed as a porter on the Maquinna, and was well known in Victoria, having made his home here.

Typhoon Puts Ships Ashore

—Central Press Photograph.

Sweeping down with terrifying force and suddenness, a typhoon, the worst in thirty years, wreaked havoc in Manila, P.I., a short time ago. Ships, including several trans-oceanic liners, were driven ashore, trees uprooted and frail houses laid in a shambles as the typhoon roared through the city on the Pasig. In all, seven vessels were swept ashore. The photograph shows the Atlantic Gulf, an American freighter, piled up high and dry on the shoreline fringed by a picturesque boulevard of the city.

OLD HISTORY IS INVOLVED

Naming of Avenue in Lourenco Marques Recalls Famous Irishman

"Why is the Praca MacMahon?" This is not one of those answerless riddles of childhood days, such as the one about the mouse that spins, but a reasonable question, and it may be asked by many cruise members aboard the Empress of Australia when that liner calls at Lourenco Marques during the Canadian Pacific's Mediterranean-Africa-South America cruise that leaves New York on January 18.

"What, they may say, has a public square in the capital of Portuguese East Africa to do with famous Frenchman, of Irish descent, marshal of the Third Empire, hero of Sedan and President of the French Republic?"

A tale of history hangs thereby and it is of particular interest to Canada, for when the Canadian members of the Empress of Australia's cruise, strolling through the lovely avenues and gardens of Lourenco Marques, reach the Praca MacMahon (or the Avenida 24 de Julho, for that matter), to their minds will be brought the time long past when the beautiful territory they are visiting was nearly destined to become a part of the British Empire.

For the Praca MacMahon, one of the finest squares in the city, commemorates France's good deed to Portugal, which may or may not have made amends for Napoleon's invasion during the Peninsular War. And it was the same act that has led to the British Empire's not counting the colony among its sisters today.

DELAGOIA BAY
Called upon to decide between the claims of Portugal and President Pretorius, of the Transvaal, to the ownership of Delagoia Bay, Marshal MacMahon, President of France, on July 24, 1875, gave his decision in favor of Portugal. The date is commemorated by the Praca MacMahon, which was built in 1929, could have been constructed for $1,137,673 less in Great Britain.

Parrell's estimate, as given by the British yard for building a vessel comparable to the American South African liner, was $780,000, but upon allowance for superstructure and exchange at the institution of Government counsel this figure was raised to $1,296,000, bringing the construction cost differential down to $621,000.

"The men who have received those subsidies are the shipbuilders and not the shipowners," declared C. K. Keating, counsel for the American South African Line. "The shipbuilders have been paid 100 per cent on the dollar and the shipowners and the Government are trying to pay the bill."

Karl A. Crowley, solicitor for the department, then asked: "The shipowner does not get the subsidy, the shipyard gets it?" As Mr. Keating repeated his statement Solicitor Crowley inquired if higher ship prices were not due to the "monopoly" of the American shipyards, and "do you think that if Congress amended the law to permit operation of foreign flag vessels on these coastwise routes it would help the shipowners to compete?" The American South African Line's counsel suggested Government supervision as in naval building as a solution of merchant ship construction.

Wide Difference in Construction Costs
Learned at Hearing

Ship Costing Almost Two Million Dollars in United States Could Have Been Built in Britain for $621,000 Less

Charged with exacting "outrageous" prices, American shipbuilders were characterized as the principal beneficiaries of the $119,237,756, it paid to June 30, 1934, to shipowners under forty-four ocean mail contracts at the ocean mail contract hearing at Washington last week. The Administration, it was indicated, might possibly remove the restriction barring foreign-built ships from participating in subsidies in order to create competition to bring about reasonable construction costs in United States' yards.

Of the $308,095,160 estimated compensation over the ten-year period of the subsidies, $137,642,789 already has gone to the shipyards in payment for thirty-one new vessels built under the contracts. In addition to the yards receiving several million dollars for reconstruction work, construction of a number of new vessels has been held up. The estimated mail pay for the balance of the contracts is given as $188,837,403.

SMALL SUM REPAID
The shipowners' 25 per cent down payments for the new vessels total $50,794,815, with shipping-board construction loans amounting to $97,848,775, of which $85,773,792 is outstanding since only $12,064,983 has been repaid.

With James A. Farrell, Jr., president of the American South African Line, testifying before the Post-office Department investigating board, discussion of the vessel construction cost differential here and abroad was precipitated by introduction of evidence that this contractor's steamer, City of New York, built in an American yard for $1,117,673 in 1929, could have been constructed for $1,137,673 less in Great Britain.

Parrell's estimate, as given by the British yard for building a vessel comparable to the American South African liner, was $780,000, but upon allowance for superstructure and exchange at the institution of Government counsel this figure was raised to $1,296,000, bringing the construction cost differential down to $621,000.

"The men who have received those subsidies are the shipbuilders and not the shipowners," declared C. K. Keating, counsel for the American South African Line. "The shipbuilders have been paid 100 per cent on the dollar and the shipowners and the Government are trying to pay the bill."

The American South African Line's counsel suggested Government supervision as in naval building as a solution of merchant ship construction.

He made a reference to the B.C. Nickel property, on which he stated $860,000 has been spent, of which a large amount went into exploration. He stated a prominent metallurgist had informed him that, if the ore would yield one per cent of nickel and profitable by-products of iron and sulphur could be obtained, mining at the rate of 1,000 tons daily could be conducted at a profit. He said he does not believe those at the head of the development would go to such a heavy expense unless they felt a justification with results thus far and that their product would find a market.

Mr. Richmond estimated that the Pioneer mine would yield 100,000 ounces of gold this year and the Balmorne mine 52,000 ounces.

SETTLING DOWN
IN BRIDGE RIVER

Engineer Says Mining Now on Solid Basis—Poor Properties Closed

VANCOUVER, Nov. 30 (CP).—About one-half of one per cent of prospects develop into producing mines, and because a property is situated on a certain formation it does not follow that a mine will be developed there. A. M. Richmond, British Columbia resident engineer, today told members of the British Columbia division, Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, that tonnage and value of minerals in the ore are the determining factors. Mr. Richmond said, with reference to Bridge River, part of his own property, that the mine which was operated profitably with a mill of 100 to 150 tons daily capacity.

To operate such a plant for the period of one year, he said, requires a mass of ore measuring approximately three feet wide, 1,000 feet long and 150 feet in depth.

Bridge River area has settled down to solid mining and many properties have been closed down either because of lack of finances or discouraging results, Mr. Richmond said.

He made a reference to the B.C. Nickel property, on which he stated $860,000 has been spent, of which a large amount went into exploration. He stated a prominent metallurgist had informed him that, if the ore would yield one per cent of nickel and profitable by-products of iron and sulphur could be obtained, mining at the rate of 1,000 tons daily could be conducted at a profit. Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald Have Leads in Lehar's "The Merry Widow"

One of the most remarkable violins in the world plays an obligato to songs by Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald in "The Merry Widow," Ernest Lubitsch's spectacular production of the Franz Lehar masterpiece, which opens today at the Capitol Theatre. It is one of the two or three "bilingual" violins in existence.

This remarkable instrument, owned by Bela Lobov, the famous musician brought to Hollywood specially from New York for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new picture. Lobov plays a gypsy musician in "The Merry Widow" and accompanies Miss MacDonald in the "Villa" number, and Chevalier in others.

The picture, retaining in full the original Franz Lehar musical score, is staged in massive settings, with hundreds of gorgeously costumed players. The gay Continental flavor, whimsical touches of Lubitsch humor, the dreamy Viennese music, are settings for a musical romance beloved all over the world.

Among the players are Edward Everett Horton, Una Merkel, George Barbier, Minna Gombell, Ruth Channing, Sterling Holloway, Donald Meek and Herman Bing.

ALABAMA IS GIVEN GAME
AT PASADENA

To Oppose Stanford in Rose Bowl Grid Classic New Year's Day

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer.
PASADENA, Calif., Nov. 30 (AP).—Alabama, to the amazement of no one, was picked today to oppose Stanford in the twentieth annual Rose Bowl football game here New Year's Day.

While the football world felt certain the crimson tide would roll again in the Rose Bowl, it had to await the arrival of Alfred Masters, Stanford's graduate manager, today, before its choice could be confirmed.

"Plenty of pressure was brought to bear from other sections of the country," he said, "but there was only one possible move under the circumstances. I talked with Alabama representatives before I left last night, offering them a definite invitation, which was promptly accepted."

"Because of the Western Conference post-season ban we did not approach Minnesota, Big Ten champion, knowing an invitation would cause all concerned much embarrassment."

The selection of Coach Frank Thomas' team means that Alabama will make its fourth Rose Bowl appearance in less than ten years, with its record here still unspotted by defeat. The invaders were tied in 1927 by Stanford. Victories over Washington and Washington State marked the other trips.

VARSIY ATHLETES WIN INTER-CITY TRACK MEET

U.B.C. TRACKSTERS SHOW GREAT FORM IN 52-32 VICTORY

Point Grey Institution Captures Kiwanis Indoor Meet for Second Straight Year From Y.M.C.A. — Addison Presented With Trophy — Visitors Take Both Relays

Scoring victories in six of the ten events, visiting University of British Columbia track and field stars defeated Victoria Y.M.C.A., 52 to 32, in the Kiwanis Club's sponsored indoor meet, staged yesterday evening at the Armories. The visitors gained the lead when L. Ganzer won the one-mile event, the first inter-city race, and were never overtaken by the Capital City's representatives.

Joe Addison, Victoria's representative at the British Empire Games, scored two impressive victories when he breasted the tape in the 440 yards and the 45 yards hurdles for the only double victory of the evening.

Breaking fast after two false starts, Bill Stott, Varsity sprint ace, topped the 45 yards dash, with G. Heron and M. Klinkhamer, teammates, running second and third.

Taking away the lead from "Chuck" Cunningham, Victoria runner, after the first lap, L. Ganzer Varsity, won the mile event by about eight feet. Cunningham challenged on the outside in the final lap, but could not get up to the winner.

ADDITION TRIUMPHS

Joe Addison got away fast with the bark of Starter Percy Williams' gun and won the 45 yards hurdle in fine fashion, defeating Bill Stott, Varsity, by ten feet.

A spill at the first turn, when Addison tried to pass Klinkhamer, of U.B.C., necessitated a new start in the 440-yard event, which the Victoria runner won by fifteen feet. Addison took the lead and was challenged at the first turn by Klinkhamer, but remained out in front for the distance.

Beating out Bill Stott, a teammate, Addison won the 440-yard hurdle, U.B.C., and the 45 yards hurdle, U.B.C., in the same race.

Bill Dale, Victoria, ran a beautiful race to top the 880-yard event. Trailing Mansfield Reach, Varsity, for the greater part of the distance, after relinquishing an early lead, the local flash went ahead on the second corner from the finishing tape and scored a great victory.

Varsity won the shuttle and the one-mile relay races. In the first event, Bill Stott, starting man for U.B.C., gained a lead over Dick Surphila, Victoria runner, and the locals never got up to their opponents. In the mile relay, Varsity's two first runners went out in front, but A. Gaunt, Victoria's third man, beat Ganzer and gave Joe Addison, running last for the locals, a lead over Max Stewart. Addison appeared to be headed for a certain victory, but was nosed out at the tape in a great sprint by the Vancouver runner. It was the biggest surprise of the meet.

Jim Cousins, L. Simpson and W. Thompson, all local jumpers, carried off the honors in the high jump, finishing in the above order.

TROPHY PRESENTED

Mayor David Leeming presented Joe Addison with the Aldous Trophy, after the athletes had paraded to the centre of the large armories, led by Miss Lillian Grant and her bagpipers.

Scottish dancing numbers by Miss Adelaide Grant and her pupils were loudly applauded, while the gymnastic display by the Junior Leaders Corps of the Y.M.C.A. drew prolonged applause. Constable Ralph Alcock and his tumbling comedians were the cause of much laughter.

Musical selections rendered during the evening by the Victoria High School Orchestra, under the direction of Al Prescott, were well received, and the young musicians received a great hand from the large and appreciative audience.

Gains Technical Knockout Over Jadick in Short Time — Quintana Wins

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (AP).—Sammy Fuller, stubby little welterweight, made short work of lanky Johnny Jadick, of Philadelphia, gaining a technical knockout in the fourth round of their ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight, as one of the smallest crowds on record looked on. Fuller weighed 138 1/2 lb., Jadick 138 1/4 lb.

Carlos Baby Quintana, speedy Panamanian Indian, outpointed Joe Tei Ken, little Korean puncher, in an eight-round bout fought after the main event, and thereby earned himself a place in the bantamweight little elimination series being staged by the Quebec Athletic Commission.

OUTLASTS RIVAL

Quintana, despite a bad cut on his head suffered in the first round, outlasted his rival in a free-swinging finish. He weighed 117 1/2 lb., Tei Ken 117 lb.

Only 2,500 paying customers were on hand to contribute $6,163.89, and they sat there in almost dead silence while the main event ran its brief course.

Victoria West to Meet Thistles in Important Fixture

Greenshirts and Saanich Eleven Will Tangle in Crucial Match at Athletic Park This Afternoon — City Faces Esquimalt at Heywood Avenue — Cup Final December 8

HOW THEY STAND

	W	L	D	F	A	P
Saanich Thistles	5	0	1	13	4	11
Victoria West	3	1	3	13	9	9
Victoria City	0	3	3	4	10	3
Esquimalt	1	5	1	9	16	3

Soccerdom's spotlight will swing over the Royal Athletic Park, this afternoon, with Saanich Thistles, present pace-setters, clashing with the second-place Victoria West aggregation in the feature fixture of the Victoria and District Football League programme. Referee Thomas Robb will swing the eleven into action at 2:30 and, with both teams fielding their best squads, one of the hardest fought engagements of the season should be witnessed. Out at the Heywood Avenue grounds, at the same hour, Esquimalt, last year's champions, and present cellar occupants, will be striving for a much needed victory at the expense of Victoria City. J. C. "Scotty" Dowds will be the arbiter in charge.

Two matches are set in the second division over the week-end. Victoria City and Saanich Thistles will meet this afternoon at upper Beacon Hill at 2:30, with A. McKay handling the whistle, while Victoria West will journey to James Island for an engagement tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Ralph Alcock will referee the match.

CUP FINAL SET

The following week-end, Victoria West and Victoria City will tangle in the final of the Milton Cup competition at the local enclosure, with D. McMillan in charge. The game will commence at 2 o'clock, and a half-hour of overtime will take place, if necessary. In the opening rounds, the Wests eliminated the Thistles, and the City ousted Esquimalt last week by a comfortable margin.

October 13 between Victoria City and the Thistles, and won by the former eleven, has been declared no game by the commission, and is ordered replayed. The reason for the replay is that a registered player on the City team had previously played in a Wednesday league fixture on October 8, thereby making himself ineligible. Since then the player has been reinstated, and the match will be replayed on some convenient date.

Today's feature tussle should be a toss-up from the opening whistle. Saanich, a strong aggressive type of team, will be in the game all the time and will keep the greenshirts on the go to the finish. In their last appearance, the Thistles won from the City, 3-1, after a great display, especially on the front rank. If this line clicks in the same fashion, the Wests' back division will be in for a busy afternoon. However, the greenshirts are a hustling club and will be favored by many to win from the suburban lads and create a tie for top position.

CITY FAVORED

The City are favored to take another victory from the fast slipping Esquimalt aggregation. The dockers have failed to impress this season, and have only taken one decision since the curtain went up. Last week they looked like a winning club in the first half, but after the interval they faded badly from the picture, as their opponents, the City, ran in three more tallies.

EXPLANATION FOR YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

Rains of Fishes—Every July the residents of Yoro, Honduras, are treated to an unbelievable freak of tropic storms accompanied by showers of fishes, some of which attain a length of six inches. The scientific explanation is that Yoro is not far from the Caribbean Sea. In this sea, water spouts are formed which are so powerful that they suck up water and fishes from the sea, rising high over the land in the form of a rain cloud. As the cloud bursts, the fishes drop to the ground. Sometimes the waterspout finds shallow water or swamps in its path. In that case the rain also consists of frogs and small snakes.

An Eleven-Year Winning Streak—Coach Frank Gross, of the Berkeley, California, High School "Bees" has hung up a remarkable record for his 130-pound squad. Eleven years ago, in 1923, the Oakland Tech Goats eked out a three to nothing victory over the Bees, but that was their last defeat. Since then the first little team has played 101 games, and won them all, piling up huge scores and holding a few opponents to tie games.

Remember When

(Twenty-Five Years Ago)

Brooks Vais will represent the Victoria Y.M.C.A. in the Pacific Northwest championship meet to be held at Tacoma next Saturday. Vais is a corner, if he cannot be fairly said to have arrived. His performances are fresh in the minds of most Victorians who keep posted on athletics.

W. G. Findlay, the physical director of the local Y.M.C.A., who has acted as the promising lad's godfather almost from the time he made his debut, will chaperon him in the pending exhibition. They leave on Friday. Among the events in which Vais will participate are the following: 25 yards dash, 30 yards hurdles, three standing broad jumps and the 120 yards potato race.

Thirty sturdy athletes, trained to the minute, and eager for the fray, will take the field in the interests of Victoria and Vancouver Rugby clubs on Saturday afternoon at the Royal Athletic Park.

It will be the second engagement of these fifteen. The first took place on the Mainland, and the result was victory for the Islanders. The margin, three points to nil, was narrow, and the Vancouver press hinted that it couldn't be considered a fair test, because the referee had made a mistake. Even if this is true, and luck was with the locals, it can't be denied that the Mainland and Island teams are more evenly matched this year than they have been for years. On Saturday it will be decided whether the balance of power lies with Victoria or vice versa. It should be a rattling fine exhibition.

CARIDEO RESIGNS

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 30 (AP).—Frank Carideo, Notre Dame's all-American quarterback of 1929 and 1930 and last of the Rockne field generals, resigned today from the University of Missouri—one of the first major victims of the open season on unfortunate football coaches. The resignation of the young head coach, now in his mid-twenties, came close after Missouri's 20-0 loss to Kansas Jayhawks. In Carideo's three years at the helm, Missouri lost twenty-two games, won two and tied two.

Ends Bout Quickly

GRAND FORKS, N.D., Nov. 30 (AP).—Ernie Hetherington, of Winnipeg, made short work of Red King, of Billings, Mont., here tonight, scoring a technical knockout in one minute and fourteen seconds of the first round of a six rounder. Hetherington weighed 154 and King 160.

Beat Hoyle-Brown Aggregation 39-26 Before Slim Crowd

Visiting Hoopsters Romp Off With Thirteen-Point Victory From Local Senior "B" Squad—Lake Hill Trims New Method, 51-24—Pantorium Scores 40-16 Decision

With not even a fair crowd to cheer their efforts at the Victoria High School gymnasium, last night, members of the Hoyle-Brown men's senior "B" basketball squad, crashed to a 39-26 defeat at the hands of a peppy quintette from Bremerton. Lake Hill, senior "B" team of men, had little trouble in repulsing the unorganized attacks of the New Method Laundry handballers, and gained a 51-24 victory. Pantorium senior women raced through a less-experienced Maroons aggregation, 40-16, in the opening fixture.

Hoyle-Brown, suffering their first defeat of the season, looked little like champions in their performance. Their shooting was distinctly off color and their passing plays seldom materialized, while early in the game they lost one of their stars, Robertson, when he disputed a decision handed out by Referee Harding.

MASON SHINES

The visitors, known as the Charleston Club, were quick to take advantage of opportunities, but they too, suffered from poor shooting. Mason, diminutive guard and field general, turned in a fine game, and credit is due him that the local boys did not gather many more points.

Hoyle-Brown players, early in the first half, suddenly seemed to discover the floor was too small for them and accordingly tried to walk over each other in getting from end to end or side to side.

Play in the feature game opened with the visitors scoring the first basket within thirty-five seconds. Goldsmith, for Hoyle-Brown, duplicated the fast-play score, and the two teams battled on even ground for a few minutes. Then Mason rushed through on another fast play and scored to lead his team until the Bremerton boys had collected nine points did the locals boost their score, and then by one only. The first half ended with the score standing 18-8.

In the second half, the teams scored basket for basket, to turn in the best period of playing. Hooper, at guard for Bremerton, in his zeal to defend the basket, was sent off four fouls against him. The last three minutes saw fast play by both teams, and the game ended with the score 39-26 in favor of the visitors.
